FAMOUS U. S. MARINE FLIER FALLS TO DEATH

Rogers, Cherokee, Boomed as Foe of Curtis, the Kaw

(Special To The News)

HOUSTON, Tex., June 23.—Say, I got a great new political scheme.

Capt. Hickman, captain of the Texas Rangers, wants me to run as vice president on the Democratic ticket, me being Cherokee Indian, and Charley Curtis a Kaw Indian.

Hickman's theory is that the Cherokees have always licked the Kaws, and that there is many more Cherokees than Kaws.

Pretty sound reasoning, and besides nobody knows how I stand on prohibition. Coolidge was president six years and nobody knew how he stood.

Religion, I am a Holy Roller.

Farm relief, I never voted for, against, or even read the McNary-Haughen bill.

Vote for Rogers and scalp the Kaws.

Yours,
WILL.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Some indications of the way this community is growing is to be found in the report of the county school authorities that it will be necessary to make use of three portable schools at the Shenango township consolidated school next fall. A new 19-room school was opened only one year ago, and the board of directors believed that a school large enough to accommodate the demands for some years was being erected. Here, within less than a year, it is necessary to make plans for additional rooms, and the portables are to be used temporarily.

Likewise, the fact that new schools are being erected in five or six different county districts at the same time (or additions to present facilities) shows that the county schools are keeping step in progress with those in New Castle. Some 44 additional rooms are to be provided next fall in the schools outside the city, while in New Castle the new George Washington Junior High school is to be opened, and some 20 additional rooms are to be available at the Senior High school, as a result of the addition now being completed.

Federal Prohibition Commissioner Pennington on the occasion of his visit here was rather complimentary to the efforts of the local law enforcement agencies when he said that he had one of his best men in this city for four days and the agent was unable to make any purchases of liquor.

Pa Newc is inclined to believe that former Councilman Louis Genkinger is right in his attitude urging that the city dispose of the municipal conduit system to the Bell Telephone Company. There is little outlook for the city ever getting very great rental for the conduit system. Because of the system of regulation of utilities by the public service commission of the state, there is little likelihood of any competing telephone companies here in many years. The state commission believes the regulation of utilities in the field is better procedure than the maintenance of two or three competing companies rendering the same service, or the same kind of service.

Begins to look as if the Democrats are not going to have such a serene time down in Houston as some were wont to believe. The prohibition issue is far from a dead one, it appears.

New Castle parochial schools are now closing for the summer vacation. Excellent classes are being turned out in these schools. The graduates will enter the public junior high schools in the fall to continue their schooling.

While little publicity attended, there was a notable gathering at the Scottish Rite Cathedral in this city last night. The Pennsylvania Council of Deliberation of the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite met in this city for the first time in the city's his-

MAJOR LUTZ WAS NICARAGUA BOUND

Lieut. Busbey And Corporal McChesney Are Other Victims Of Crash

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Major Charles A. Lutz, veteran marine flyer and holder of the coveted Curtiss trophy, and two other marine flyers were killed early today when their big Fokker plane went into a tail-spin near File, Va.

An official report to the Navy Department said the plane ran into a heavy fog after passing over the Quantico marine base. The accident was attributed to engine trouble.

Besides Lutz, Lieutenant Howard B. Busbey, married, of Washington, and Corporal D. C. McChesney of Detroit, a mechanic, were killed.

Corporal Injured

Corporal Reeder Nicholas of Florence, Ala., was injured, but probably will recover. He was severely burned, the report said.

Major L. M. Bourne, commandant of the marine field at Quantico, went to the scene to make an investigation.

Lutz was en route to Nicaragua by way of Miami, Fla., to take charge of the marine forces in the southern republic. He at first had intended to make a non-stop flight to Nicaragua, but the Navy Department required that a stop be made at Miami.

KING'S BAY, Spitzbergen, June 23. — Five nations were joined today in the search for Capt. Roald Amundsen, famous Arctic explorer, who left Tromsoe, Norway, almost five days ago accompanied by Major Rene Guilbaud and three others in a French plane and has not been heard from since.

HOUSTON, Tex., June 23—Gov. Al Smith has no intention of demanding a wet plank in the Democratic platform and some of his close friends here are quietly laughing up their sleeves at all the fuss being made by the drys, according to reports in circulation at the Smith headquarters here today.

Although Governor Smith personally believes the Volstead law should be modified, it was pointed out by members of his board of strategy that he has repeatedly declared for strict enforcement of all laws.

Bandit Stages Daring Hold-Up Aboard Train

Lone Thug Stages Hold-Up Of Train Messenger And Gets $1,500

MESSENGER HURLED FROM TRAIN ROOM

Intense Man Hunt Started At Blissfield, Mich., For Thug And Companions

(International News Service)

BLISSFIELD, Mich., June 23.—A lone bandit who held up a New York Central passenger train here shortly before midnight, escaping with $1,500 in cash, was being sought by authorities of Blissfield and nearby towns today.

The train was enroute from Chicago to Buffalo, having left Chicago at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The bandit is believed to have boarded the train at Adrian, Michigan, he entered the express car and leveled a revolver at the messenger in charge. The latter was bound and gagged and hurled from the train when it slowed down for the Blissfield station.

The bandit, after seizing a pouch containing $1,500 in currency leaped from the train on the other side of the track and escaped in the darkness. It is believed the bandit fled to an automobile parked near the station and headed toward Detroit.

The first intimation of the daring robbery came when several persons on the platform were horrified at the sight of a man's body hurled from the express car into their midst.

The messenger appeared to be uninjured and was quickly revived. He said the man "got the drop" on him as soon as he entered the express car.

Question Messenger

Police, New York Central and American Railway Express company detectives questioned the messenger A. B. "Bob" Carrothers, regarding details of the $1,500 robbery.

Carrother's story is that when the train stopped in Adrian enroute from Chicago to Buffalo shortly before 11 p. m. last night, he stepped to the next car for a moment and that when he returned a masked bandit covered him with a gun and then proceeded to rifle packages until the train arrived in Blissfield where the bandit jumped off.

Several persons assert that they

Senator Reed Is At Houston; Gets Cordial Ovation

Hundreds Greet Senator James A. Reed Of Missouri On Arrival At Houston

"FIGHTING JIM" TAKES CONTROL

Reed For President Boom Takes Impetus With Dynamic Senator On Hand

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HOUSTON, Tex., June 23.—The collective backbone of the loosely-drawn alliance, fighting the nomination of Gov. Al Smith, was strengthened considerably today with Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, on the battleground, taking personal command of his own race for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The very appearance of Reed in Houston apparently was the signal for a series of attacks, direct and indirect, on the Smith candidacy. As a result, the Reed followers were chanting an optimistic song around the slogan:.."Reed will win; win with Reed".

Greeted By Hundreds

The "Fighting Jim" of Missouri democracy was given a spectacular welcome to the convention city. Hundreds met his train, more hundreds thronged the lobby of his headquarters hotel where he held an impromptu reception and followers of a half dozen other candidates shook his hand and wished him well.

The presence of Reed put heart into his followers and stirred up the other candidates, opposing Smith. For instance, Cordell Hull, of Tennessee, issued a statement coincident with Reed's arrival, declaring in favor of a dry plank and opposing the Smith suggestion for modification of prohibition. Then A. C. Sallee, a pré-convention manager for Evans Woollen of Indiana, issued a statement declaring Indiana would vote for the Hoosier "Until a candidate is nominated". There probably is no connection between these events, but it is significant that the shooting at Smith was coincident on Reed's arrival.

One of the Reed managers, meanwhile, issued a forecast of the first ballot. Smith was given but 651 votes, whereas 734 are necessary for nomination. It gave Reed 90 1-2 votes, Pomerene 47; George 18; Jones 40; Woollen 30; Robinson 18; Ayres 20; Hitchcock 16; Baker 18; Hull 43 1-2 and 98 scattered. Previously F. J. Prince a Reed manager predicted Smith would not get more than 660 votes and therefore, was certain to be stopped.

HOPE TO SUBMERGE PROHIBITION ISSUE

Anti-Smith Forces Not As Yet Aligned On Any One Candidate

By GEORGE R. HOLMES

HOUSTON, Tex., June 23.—A quiet, but nevertheless, extremely energetic campaign was under way today to stifle the sounds of conflict already beginning to rise in connection with the Democratic national convention which opens on Tuesday.

It is predicated on this line:

"Smith is going to be nominated. You can't stop him. Why hamstring him, then, by repeating Madison Square Garden?"

In this campaign are, first of all, of course, the active supporters of the New York governor. But of more importance is the fact there are a number of southerners who would rather see someone else nominated, but who are convinced no one else will be, and being so convinced want to make the best of the situation.

Coalition Fails

The early efforts to form a bitter-end, anti-Smith coalition have failed utterly. Perhaps one may be whipped into shape later, but thus far efforts along this line haven't made much headway. There are half a dozen rival candidates, each with his small following and each determined to "stop Smith", but there is totally lacking the co-ordination of effort necessary to success.

One southern leader, a senator, who views with no particular enthusiasm the nomination of Governor Smith, was approached with the suggestion that he join a last-ditch anti-Smith coalition.

"All right," he agreed, "but who've you got to stop him?"

Several names were suggested—Reed of Missouri, Hull of Tennessee, Donahey of Ohio—anybody but Smith.

"Nothing doing," said the senator. "In a lifetime of politics I have

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Within six weeks President Coolidge will be called to fill two cabinet posts as a result of resignations of Secretary of Commerce Hoover, the Republican presidential canditate, and Secretary of Interior Work, new head of the G. O. P. National committee.

Officials here today considered it probable that Hoover and Work would have considerable to say about these appointment and that the new cabinet officers would be maintained in the next administration should the Republicans triumph.

Walter F. Brown of Ohio whose appointment as assistant secretary of commerce, was among the first definite moves by Hoover toward the nomination is a possibility as head of the commerce department. Brown was chief of a presidential committee that reorganized government bureaus some years ago. It was understood that his appointment was made with the plan that he would be secretary.

Amelia Earhart Spends Part Time Investigating Slums Of London

(International News Service)

LONDON, June 23.—Pilot Walter Stultz and Mechanician Louis Gordon, of the trans-atlantic monoplane Friendship today paid homage to the memory of Sir John Alcock, who with Sir Arthur Whitten Brown, made the first flight over the Atlantic from America to Europe in 1919.

Stultz and Gordon flew to Manchester in an Imperial Airways plane and placed a wreath upon Sir John's grave on the outskirts of that city. They were guests of a luncheon given by the Lord Mayor of the United States consul in Manchester.

Amelia Luncheon Guest.

Miss Amelia Earhart, third member of the crew of the Frienship, remained behind in London where she was the guest of honor at a luncheon given by Mrs. Alonson B. Houghton, wife of the American ambassador.

The trans-ocean flyers were given a tumultous demonstration last night when they attended the Tivoli Theatre and occupied the royal box as guests of the Royal Aero Club. The cheering was so incessant that Stultz was finally prevailed upon to make a speech. In doing so he bettered the record of Henry Ford, whose speech at a formal banquet in this city recently consisted of 31 words. Pilot Stultz took only 17 words to declare the thanks of himself and his companions for the cordial reception they have received in England.

Miss Earhart, who is interested in social welfare work, is visiting various institutions in the London slums. She expressed high praise over the excellent work being done by the British to alleviate the distress of the unfortunates.

Estimate Loot In Mail Robbery At Half Million

Discovery That Registered Mail Of Ship Has Been Looted Made In London

Mail Sacks Are Intact But Contents Of Envelopes Are Missing

(Bulletin)
(International News Service)

LONDON, June 23.—A bold registered mail robbery upon the United States liner Leviathan, in which the loot is conservatively estimated at $500,000, was discovered today when the rifled mail bags reached here from Southampton.

Scotland Yard detectives believe that the crime was committed before the mail sacks were placed aboard the liner in New York. The American postal authorities were immediately notified.

Mail Is Gone

The Leviathan reached Southampton last night and the bags were immediately dispatched to London, reaching the provincial sorting offices shortly after one o'clock. As the seals were apparently intact, the clerks suspected nothing until the sacks were opened. Then the sorters found every letter and parcel neatly split and the contents missing.

Scotland Yard was at once notified and detailed detectives to the case.

The detectives declared that the crime could not have been committed while the mail was en route from Southampton to this city, as the time was too short. In view of the fact that the mail was under lock and key and guarded on the liner, the detectives dismissed the theory that the robbery may have taken place on shipboard. They then assume that the bags were opened before leaving New York.

Jones Displays Excellent Golf In Open Tourney

Bobbie Jones Goes Through Nine Holes This Morning In Par 35

HOLDS LEAD OVER HAGEN AND FIELD

(International News Service)

OLYMPIA FIELDS, Ill., June 23.—Bobby Jones nobly protected his margins on the golf exchange this morning when he raced over the first nine holes of the final day's play in the National Open Championship in a par 35. He started the day which was dark and overcast with the threat of rain, with two strokes lead over the field and three strokes advantage over Walter Hagen, his arch-rival. Hagen also began asupiciously, getting a birdie 4 on the first hole but George Von Elm lost four more strokes to jones in going to the turn in 39.

Bobby's nine hole card, which included birdies at the first and third holes and buzzards at the sixth and ninth, follow:

Jones 4-4-3-4-4-4-4-3-5—35.

Jones' pace was so hot that it carried his new partner, Gene Sarazen along to bigger and better things. Gene hadn't been scoring previously but he also got a 35 this morning exactly par for the layout.

Starts With Birdie.

The great Atlantan, like Hagen, started with a birdie. It wasn't a typical Jones birdie, a circumstance that has been the rule rather than the exception in this tournament. On this occasion, he missed the green with his second, the ball coming to rest in the rough to the left of the green. Jones' reply was to chip within a foot of the pin while the gallery went wild.

Must the same thing happened at the second, except that, after chipping well up, he missed the putt and got no better than a par 4, poor fellow. At the 420 yard third, Bobby hit two good shots to the green, the approach leaving him a 15 foot putt for a birdie. He got both.

The fourth was a regulation par 4, but the fifth had its developments in that Bobby's second dropped magnificently within 5 feet of the pin. He missed the putt, however, and had to be content with another par.

The short sixth saw him pull his tee shot slightly to the left of the green. His chip back was good, very good, but his putt for a par was bad, very bad. That is to say, he missed another 5 footer and Bobby seldom does a thing like that in the same nine holes.

tory, and one of the very few times that the body has met outside of Philadelphia. Notable leaders in the organization from various sections of the state were here.

Again the citizens of New Castle are urged to cut the high grass and weeds from vacant lots. And well they should, for it is about the time of the first hay harvest. If some of the vacant lots which Pa Newc sees in his perigrinations are to be taken as horrible examples, the weeds in the city have grown beyond all legitimate proportions during the rainy season. On Garfield avenue, between Highland and Albert, they are as high as Pa Newc's midriff, and they have not yet finished growing.

But just what diseases spring from golden rod (aside from the much discussed hay fever) Pa Newc would like to know.

And speaking of fevers, Pa Newc has noticed that quite a few of the men and women about town are now afflicted with almost the same thing as hay fever, but since it is early summer they dub it "rose fever". However, as far as we are able to ascertain, the symptoms are the same.

Politicians at the city tool house yesterday afternoon were hooked on the horns of a dilemna. In the United States, they figure, there are about 155,000 voting precincts. Just how many this man can carry or that man can carry is the subject for discussion. And in these precincts, they say, there are 2,000,000 "ward heelers" who will throw the election in November one way or another. Now, they want to know, which way will it be thrown?

A brand new idea has struck the children's department of the New Castle Public Library. The children's department is going on a grand tour of the United States, via books. All that they need to get the tour under way is a few maps of the United States. If you have a map and are not using it at the present time, you would do the young idea a great favor by calling the library and having a page call for the map.

Up at The Castleton the employees are sure that summer is here at last. In front of the main and side entrance there are four evergreens, planted in tubs, which seem to add that indefinable something to the hotel.

The barricade about the new P. & O. building on the Square is gradually disappearing and soon it will be but a memory. Then, at the First National Bank workmen are getting ready to remove that fence and board walk. Again, it will not be long until the fence in front of the Lawrence Savings and Trust Company's building is taken down. And then Washington street will assume a different appearance. The value of these new buildings and new facades to the city will be made evident, and all will forget the little inconveniences which the fences and board walks put them to.

The first dahlia of summer is reported to Pa Newc by Willis Lutz of Maryland avenue. It is of a pale pink, says Mr. Lutz, and was planted about the first of May.

Monday, June 25, the Lawrence County Council, Boy Scouts of America's summer encampment will open at Camp Phillips. Each evening it will be visited, the officials hope, by the parents and friends of the boys. And each day, under the able direction of J. Lee Calahan and LeRoi Norton, the boys will be having the times of their young lives. It is a worthy project and every citizen of the county should be proud to support it. And it does need support.

For Saturday Eve.

FIVE NATIONS AIDING SEARCH FOR AMUNDSEN

systematic search of the southern coast of Northeastland, Spitzbergen.

The Norwegian aviators, Capt. Riiser Larsen and Lieut. Luetzow Holm, will make similar flights over the west coast of Spitzbergen.

Three Swedish planes, including the Giant Hydroplane Upland, also will scour the northlands. These planes passed over Noblie's encampment yesterday but were unable to land.

The Russian ice-breaker originally sent out to search for Nobile by the Soviet government, has altered its course and is now proceeding towards Northeastland to search for Amundsen at the request of the Norwegian government.

French Ships Enroute

Two French navy ships are now enroute to this place to aid in the search. An additional Italian plane left Pisa yesterday to join the other Italian relief planes.

All fliers searching for Amundsen will also keep a sharp lookout for the ten other members of Nobile's crew who have not been heard from. Three of these were originally with Nobile's party but set out across the ice to seek aid. The other seven were separated from their commander when the Italia crashed on the morning of May 25.

Major Maddalena has now reached Nobile twice. On yesterday's flight he took moving pictures of the marooned explorers. He said he saw an animal gamboling about the encampment which he believed was Titina, Nobile's terrier dog mascot.

Harmony Is Watchword

This same dialogue, varying in degree, according to the principals and the place, has taken place half a dozen times in Houston during the past 24 hours. The coalition seekers have been busy, but without any appreciable success, and, on the contrary, their efforts seem to have resulted in the determination on the part of the long-headed leaders of the party not to let the anti-Smith hotheads promote another such spectacle of Democratic disharmony as was presented four years ago.

Harmony has become the watchword of the majority, and a short, snappy convention their goal.

For the first time since 1912, they point out, a Republican convention has just concluded its work by doing a lot of wash in public. The agricultural discontent in the normally Republican Middle West, coupled with the slashing attack that is planned on the Republican scandals, oil and otherwise, has convinced a lot of Democrats that they have a real chance to win in November. Therefore, they want, if possible, to present here in Houston a reasonably harmonious convention and get away as soon as possible.

This task of the harmonizers is to put a soft pedal on the prohibition fight. That is at once their first and their most difficult task.

Drys Are Militant

The radical drys are militant and determined to hammer into the platform at any cost a plank that will commit the party irrevocably to the "moral righteousness" of prohibition. The Smith people are equally determined that there will be no such plank, and being in the majority are fairly confident of their ability to defeat it.

In this connection they have already made some headway through the virtual selection of Senator Key Pittman of Nevada to be chairman of the platform committee. Senator Pittman is rated a dry, but he does not belong to the radical fringe of the party on this question. Every incoming delegation is being quietly urged to select as its member of the resolutions committee a "reasonable" member who will be willing to go along with the majority rather than upset the apple cart with a minority report.

With Pittman running the resolutions committee, with Claude G. Bowers, a personal friend of Governor Smith's, as temporary chairman of the convention, and with the likely selection of Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas a hard-hitting organization Democrat, as permanent chairman, the harmonizers feel already reasonably confident of their ability to control any situation that may arise.

The next few days will show whether or not their confidence is justified.

GOVERNOR SMITH NOT TO DEMAND WET PLANK FOR PARTY PLATFORM

prove the writing into the platform of a plank declaring for rigid enforcement of all laws, but making no specific mention of either the 18th amendment or the Volstead law.

Because of repeated public declarations by Smith in the last two years in which he asserted that all laws should be strictly enforced, his managers are said to feel that it will not embarrass him, as a presidential candidate, to run on a platform which declares for rigid law enforcement.

Judge George Olvany, leader of Tammany Hall, and a half dozen other leaders in that famous Democratic organization are here to do all they can in a quiet way to help nominate Governor Smith but they are making it a point not to discuss prohibition.

Both Judge Olvany and George R. Van Namee, pre-convention manager for the New York executive, have made it plain there is no one in Houston who has the authority to speak for Smith on prohibition and that when the proper time comes the governor will make known his views, either through a public statement or by message to the New York delegation.

Olvany is Silent.

Efforts to induce Judge Olvany to give some hint as to what New York or in other words, what Governor Smith intends to do about prohibition, were futile.

"I don't think we have any plans yet," was all the Tammany Hall chieftain would say.

Olvany said a decision would be made on Monday night at the caucus of the delegation as to what New York would favor in the line of platform planks.

No Recommendation.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 23.—Governor Al Smith will not recommend any plank on the subject of prohibition to the Democratic national convention at Houston, he said today after arriving from New York, where he conferred with party leaders before they left for the convention to put his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The executive will remain silent until the convention has acted, his associates said, and he will make no public utterances on any of the party issues until after that issue has been settled by the convention.

The governor's friends are claiming that the reiteration of his previous stand on prohibition has strengthened his candidacy. They point to the large number of congratulatory messages the executive has received on his New York statement. In that declaration he said he had not changed his views in opposition to Volsteadism.

Pennsylvania To Support Hoover

Governor Fisher Has Two Hour Conference With Work At Washington

By GEORGE H. MANNING
Washington Correspondent of The News

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 23.—Pennsylvania was the first state to assure the national Republican leaders of complete support at the polls in November and to offer the managers of the Hoover-Curtis ticket unlimited help in the campaign this summer to bring the voters of other states into line for the Republican Presidential ticket.

Governor Fisher of Pennsylvania and Republican State Chairman Martin had a two-hour chat at luncheon here yesterday with Secretary of the Interior Work, who was chosen by the Republican national committee on the previous day as chairman of the committee.

The two Pennsylvanians went direct to the office of Secretary of the Interior Work upon their arrival by auto from Harrisburg. After chatting just two or three minutes the trio went to luncheon and stayed about two hours.

Governor Fisher and Mr. Work, who is to manage the Hoover campaign, were boyhood school companions back in Indiana county, Pa., years ago, and they have maintained a close friendship since, although their paths have been widely separated.

It is regarded as probable that Governor Fisher will do some stumping for the Hoover-Curtis ticket in states outside Pennsylvania.

"Governor Fisher assured me very frankly that he believes no help will be needed from the national Republican organization to carry Pennsylvania for the Hoover-Curtis ticket in November," said Mr. Work after Governor Fisher had departed for home.

Banner Reunion Of School Alumni Is Now Indicated

Expect Former Records To Be Broken At Reunion At Cascade Park

Preparations for the annual reunion of the Alumni Association of New Castle high school on Friday, June 29, are rapidly being completed. Indications are that this will be the banner reunion of the alumni of the high school.

It is planned that the various classes meet in reunion at supper in the picnic grove at Cascade park previous to the general meeting which will be held at the close of the supper hour for the purpose of electing officers and transacting such business as may come up before the association.

It is hoped that the usual competition between the various classes for the biggest percentage of attendance as compared with original membership will be kept up and that there will be several classes fighting for this honor.

At the dance pavilion, the big day will come to a close with a grand march and dancing until midnight.

Dues by which the association is maintained will be collected at this reunion and it is the hope of the officers of the association that there will be more than sufficient collected to put the association in excellent financial condition.

THE "UNDESIRABLE"

PROFESSOR EAST, of Harvard, believes 25 per cent of people in the United States, native-born as well as foreigners, are "undesirable."

Almost, in our haste, we agreed with him. We have felt, on occasions, that New Castle, for example, would be wonderfully helped by a few first class funerals, a number of deportations or a dozen or more removals "from our midst" of those on whom we were ready to hang the label of "undesirable citizen."

Perhaps we were right; very likly we were wrong. On second thought, there are probably those who look upon us as unworthy of citizenship in so fair a municipality and who sincerely believe the community would be the gainer by our absence.

When it comes down to a final analysis, what constitutes "undesirability?" Each of us, probably has his own particular definition, and the "catch" in the question lies in who shall be entrusted with the job of picking out the "undesirables."

Doubtless folks who would be readily tagged by the erudite Harvard professor would be regarded as boon companions by some of us. We have sometimes thought it would be a fine thing to have a king in America—if we could be king—and it is the same way with this business of herding up in one corner all the undesirable citizens. Unless the job is entrusted to us, personally, we are not in favor of it. At all events, as David Harum remarked, "Some fleas is good for a dog; keeps him from broodin' on bein' a dog," so perhaps it is just as well we have a few "undesirables" with us to break the monotony of the uneventful existence we would lead were all people perfect—like ourselves.

COMMUNITY'S RESPONSIBILITY TO AID BENEFIT

MEMBERS of the ladies auxiliary, recently organized to take care of necessary work in connection with the equipping with linens of the new Jameson Memorial hospital, which is to be opened in this city next fall, have arranged a benefit event for July 2 in the Scottish Rite cathedral, that offers the first opportunity to the community to demonstrate its response to the gift of the magnificent hospital that the late David Jameson has provided for New Castle.

New Castle is a particularly fortunate city. The outright gift to the city of a hospital and nurses home, an establishment that represents upwards of a million dollars, is one that is seldom found duplicated anywhere in America. While there are many in New Castle who actually realize the magnitude of the gift, there are many who fail to appreciate its magnificence and importance.

So far the community has been asked in no way to aid in the project in providing for the institution. Maintenance of the hospital after it is completed will be up to the people of New Castle. It will be turned over to the community, and will be operated by the community.

At the present time the ladies auxiliary is planning the benefit at the cathedral, July 2, for the purpose of financing the auxiliary's part of the work of providing for linens for the opening of the new hospital. The benefit is an opportunity for the people of the community in a small way to show an appreciation of the magnificent gift that is being made to the city, in the donation of the completed hospital.

There should be no necessity to urge upon New Castle citizens the purchase of tickets for this benefit. Its an opportunity that needs no emphasis to anyone interested in New Castle affairs.

This is a matter that clearly rests upon the community, and we are confident that the people of New Castle will not shirk, and that the plans and expectations of the ladies' auxiliary will be actually eclipsed by the response.

SAFETY OF THE MULTIMOTORED AIRPLANE

COMMANDER RICHARD E. BYRD'S comment on the transatlantic flight of the seaplane Friendship emphasizes the importance of multiple motors for overseas aviation. "There have been four ocean flights in three-motored planes and every one of them got across," he said. "Only seven per cent of single-motored airplanes have got across. There is no dodging that fact nor the conclusion that the three-motored plane is safest."

Commander Byrd need not feel that his arguments have been wasted upon the public, though he says that many aviators have refused to heed them. The importance of more than one motor is generally understood, as is also the importance of having ocean-going airplanes equipped either with pontoons or boat bodies to keep them afloat in case of a forced landing. Commander Byrd is also upheld by the two men who made the most notable American flights over the ocean in single-motored ships. Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh has said that ocean flights now should be made in multi-motored planes with radio and a navigator. Clarence Chamberlin favors a radio-equipped seaplane or flying boat.

The non-stop crossing of the Atlantic by a standard seaplane which covered a distance of 2000 odd miles before exhausting its fuel and descending undoubtedly will be followed by even greater victories along the ocean airways by self-sufficient craft of this type.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 7:34. Sun rises tomorrow 4.29.

The Hints and Dints Man has received another picture postal from Rex. L. Patch of this city who has been attending the Rotary International convention at Minneapolis. He says in part. "Met the governor of Minnesota yesterday and he called me Dr. Patch. Wonder what they will call me next?" All we got to say if they don't call him anything worse than "Doctor" he will be lucky.

On the 28th of this month the New Castle Fire Department is going to give a grand ball in the Scottish Rite Cathedral to get money to furnish the new headquarters on South Jefferson street. The tickets are one dollar and if you want to help boost the best fire department in the world buy a flock of tickets. If all those who can afford it buy, the boys will have plenty of money.

We Never Named His Feet.

Castle Hills, Pa., June 20, 1928.
Mr. Fred L. Rentz, Pres.,
New Castle News Co.,
New Castle, Pa.
Dear Fred:—

Just learned a good joke on Bart Richards, the fellow that roams around with a lot of people.

While Bart Richards worked for the Pennsylvania Railroad he never enjoyed the real luxury like after he became representative to Pennsylvania Legislature.

He took with him two suit cases and a large grip. He had a pullman berth from New Castle to Harrisburg. Bart's feet are of extraordinary size and not having room for both the luggage and his feet he opened the window and put his feet outside. When he arrived at Harrisburg the Depot Master woke him and took off his feet 4 mail bags and 3 switch lanterns. Bart wanted to be compensated by the Railroad for carrying U. S. Mail but the bill was lost by a large majority.

Yours sincerely,
Lawrence Castle.

A noted lady said recently that every woman will appreciate it if her husband would prepare a meal now and then. There is no doubt of that. In fact there are women who now make their husbands get about all the meals they have in their home. Of course there are also many men who will not prepare any meals. If we ever go to a hospital for an operation we are going to have them cut house work out of us while they have it handy.

A news item says there were $78,000,000 worth of corsets manufactured last year. For the love of Pete, what do they use them for now? Any one having information on this subject, please write.

It is reported that the Democratic delegates to the National Democratic convention at Houston are about all for Al Smith. A Democrat is always for a Democrat and many times a lot of alleged Republicans also are solid for Democrats. It isn't often that a Democrat is for a Republican, however.

The government is planning to put a fine on those who send letters through the mails with insufficient postage. This is a good move and should have been looked after years ago. Some of the cheap skins who send out thousands of advertising letters save a lot of money by having the recipent pay "postage due". Advertising will not be so cheap if they have to pay full postage on their no good junk.

No man has a right to be a pessimist if he has a wife who never growls about emptying his ash trays.

The Democrat ticket nominated at Houston may be Smith and Jones. Gov. Smith of New York and Jesse Jones of Texas. If all the Jones and Smiths get busy alone, it will count a lot.

It seems that nothing we can do seems to suit a bunch of Washington street loafers. Perhaps if we do nothing we will not be noticed any more than they are.

That football star arrested in Los Angeles for burglary says he got just as much kick out of going through a house as he did racing down the football field with a football tucked under his arm. He would have been better off if he had stayed with the football as it would not have gotten him into jail. If anyone gets a kick out of several things it's best to stay with the one there is the least danger in.

We have often wondered why some automobile manufacturer did not make a car on which the gasoline tank would be made of glass in plain sight of the driver, so he could see the gas disappearing. This might have a tendency to slow up the burning of gas. Seeing a thing go means more than most people think. If you don't think so, just watch an hour glass for an hour while it is working.

We have an idea if the Italians cooked the spaghetti for the Americans they would eat more of it. Pay no attention to anyone looking at you while you eat spaghetti.

Mayor Walker of New York will be Gov. Smith's floor leader at the Democratic convention at Houston next week. And don't think that isn't a nice political move. Just you keep your eye on the mayor while he is at the convention. He is even smoother than Smith and in future years will cut more of a figure than Smith ever will. Not long ago he gave out the news that he had stopped drinking and he had a Methodist bishop broadcast that important news to the world. Politician? Well, yes, a few, and then some. Walker should be a Republican.

A tenant of a New York flat was sued for damaging the flat. The owner stated that champagne and ginger ale glasses were broken and even the stove disappeared. You can easily guess what kind of company was entertained in that flat.

MORE ABOUT THAT FLAG SALE

Some time ago the ladies of the McCracken Circle Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic held a flag sale for the benefit of its sick and flower fund. The plea was made that the ladies were getting old and could not get funds like they used to. The treasurer of the organization has received a letter from Boston as follows:

Boston, May 30, 1928.
Dear treasurer,
George McCracken Circle, 168:

Find enclosed check for $10 sent you by my sister and myself in memory of our dear mother, who was a member of your circle. We know the ranks are thinning and you need funds to carry on. If all the sons and daughters would remember you in this manner you would not be compelled to go on the street to beg. With best wishes for your success.

DR. JOHNSON.

There was one $5 bill in the collection, five 50-cent pieces, thirty 25-cent pieces. All the rest were 10-cent and five-cent pieces, and would you believe it, plenty of pennies. They paid $6.75 for 480 flags. We hope when they have a flag day again there will be a little more liberal giving.

1,884 Leave Harvard.
Rabbits and Humans.
Throw Away Ambition.
Sound In Movies.

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1928, by N. Y. American, Inc.)

Harvard gave degrees Thursday to 1,884 students. Of four young men attaining highest scholastic standing, taking their bachelor's degree, summa cum laude, two were Jewish boys. That should modify a certain Harvard attitude on one race question.

The French say "travel forms youth when it doesn't deform it." The same is true of a college education.

Hoy many of the 1,884 young men are abler for having gone to college? How many leave with a keen desire for knowledge? How many with a conviction that they know almost everything?

How many would have been far ahead on the road to success if they had spent their college years at work?

Charles F. Brush, able citizen, inventer of the arc light, sets aside $500,000 to keep down excess population and improve the race.

Mr. Brush advocates stringent birth control, sterilization of the physically and mentally unfit.

Many think they can improve on Providence and the workings of nature in regard to population.

Nature knows how to get rid of the unfit. The important thing is to have crowds of humans from which to select exceptional men and women to do the real work.

However, nature's methods change. China, that once drowned the girl babies, now keeps them alive.

Plagues that killed off millions a year are fought by modern science, and population thus increases.

Hunger and plague used to kill off the weak, as war killed off those that were combative.

If civilization stops war, and science conquers disease, it may be necessary, artificially, to prevent humans multiplying as the rabbits did in Australia.

Sir James Barrie tells Rhodes scholars not to try for "greatness". The advice was humorous, probably. Try for greatness reduces desirable mediocrity. Men "aim high to shoot low" as the illiterate colored man said when he asked Grover Cleveland to make him librarian of congress. He really wanted a job as porter.

A baby cries for the moon and is satisfied with a cookey. Youth reaches for greatness and is content with modest achievement and a place on the golf course.

Winfield R. Sheehan, who knows about moving pictures, says screens will be much bigger for large-sized theatres now building everywhere. That will make it necessary to revise production methods.

Most important for budding genius, he says the "talking movie" will create a new army of scenario writers, knowing how to make sound effective in pictures.

In a detective story, noise of a creaking board, or a shot, might be more effective than the hero's smile.

Mr. Sheehan believes that the pictures with sound will double moving picture attendance.

Secretary Work of the interior department will conduct Secretary Hoover's presidential campaign. No better man could be chosen.

Like Mr. Hoover, Mr. Work knows this country, understands the work of development that the country needs and is in full sympathy with Secretary Hoover's plans and past accomplishments.

Mr. Hoover is fortunate in having Senator Curtis for a running mate, and doubly fortunate with Secretary Work directing his campaign.

"Big" steel and Bethlehem Steel corporation combine with others in forming the "Steel Export Association of America." United States Steel is the biggest steel concern in the world. That combination of important companies is needed to compete with European nations and preserve American foreign markets.

Childish talk of "necessary competition" and prattle about keeping business from getting "too big" are out of date.

Where nations combine to monopolize world business, great American units must combine for self defense.

Possibly some one will find a way to help our farmers form such a combination. They need it.

THEORY AND PRACTICE

Twixt theory and practice lies
A chasm wide and deep.
With theory the brilliant wise
A bivouac nightly keep.
While heavy hearts and weary eyes
Turn from their toil to sleep.

Life is not what it ought to be
The theorists declare,
But this the eyes of all can see
For wrong is everywhere.
Rain falls the very day that we
Have prayed for weather fair.

And there are hurts which seem unjust
And dreams which go astray.
In spite of all our care we must
Face many a bitter day.
Sometimes the one we've grown to trust
Flings all our faith away.

But he is happiest here who moves
Serenely towards his goal,
Who does not set his life in grooves,
But sees it as a whole,
And meeting joy or sorrow, proves
The valor of his soul.

Dr. Crane's Editorial

RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE CRIME WAVE

If you go deep enough you will generally find causes in the spiritual quality of a people, not in their outward actions.

It is supposed that the responsibility for the crime that exists is due to bad men. Some say it is the law's delays, some says it is dirty politics.

But the real cause lies deeper. It can be found in you and me. It can be found in a steady disregard for law and authority.

That there are some who honestly do not believe in the Prohibition Amendment is possible. We would not impugn the integrity of those who denounce it. They are well meaning.

But the trouble is that law is a one-piece garment. You can't make a hole in it one place and preserve its integrity in other places. You cannot enforce laws against killing, arson, attack and so on and refuse to enforce the laws against prohibition.

General Grant's remark was a wise one, that "the surest way to get rid of a bad law is to enforce it so that people can see how bad it is."

Bootlegging will go on just so long as there is money in it. Men will take any risks for profit. If the bootleggers had nobody to sell their stuff to there would be no bootlegging.

So the trouble is with you and me who buy the stuff from the bootlegger. This is a common practice and those who are guilty of it are guilty of tearing the fabric of the law that protects us.

You cannot stand out for the law in all other things and disregard it in this thing.

If you don't want your valuables taken, your house entered and robbed and your person attacked and your dear ones endangered, you must cease violating the law yourself.

The story is told of a certain judge who had his own bootlegger on trial before him. Whether this is true or not it illustrates the dilemma which we are in.

Stopping crime rests largely with you and me.

The best way to stop crime is to quit disobeying the law or abetting its disobedience.

DANGEROUS SYMPATHY

The habit of quick sympathy is, for the most part, merely a bad habit. It isn't normal to feel very much upset by every little ailment that another may have, and no good comes of pretending to be. Sympathy is bad for the recipient, and often a mark of insincerity on the part of the giver. Sympathy is weakening. It creates a bad atmosphere.

A SOCK IN THE EYE

One who knows something about life said the other day: "Few were ever permanently hurt by a 'sock in the eye.' The eye grows black and blue, and for a while feels very uncomfortable. But the blue wears away and the black wears away, and you can still see. Don't worry about a 'sock in the eye.' It can't last."

* * *

LIKING FOLKS

If you find you don't like somebody, your first thought is to keep away from him. Try another plan some time—just for curiosity if for nothing else. Cultivate somebody you don't like. You will be sure to find out things about him you did not know before, and many of them are likely to be things you like. By a little attention your whole attitude may be changed. And it is bad for your nervous system to dislike people.

CHESTERFIELD

Lord Chesterfield was an authority on courtesy. His letters set a high standard for manners. He was good for our grandfathers. He is still good. Said Chesterfield:

"Modesty is the only sure bait when you angle for praise. . . . Whatever real merit you have, other people will discover and people always magnify their own discoveries, as they lessen those of others.

"I have known many people to take shame to themselves and, with a modest contribution, confess themselves guilty of most of the cardinal virtues.

"If people had no vices but their own, few would have so many as they have. For my part, I would sooner wear other people's clothes than their vices.

"Flattery, though a base coin, is the necessary pocket money at court, where, by custom and consent, it has obtained such a currency that it is no longer fraudulent, but a legal payment.

"A man's own good breeding is his best security against other people's ill manners. (Now isn't that good?)

"The good name that we leave behind at one place often gets before us to another, and it is of great use.

"Whoever is in a hurry shows that the thing he is about is too big for him. (Suppose we try that over on our piano several times a day.)

"Wear your learning, like your watch, in a private pocket and do not pull it out and strike it merely to show that you have one. If you are asked what o'clock it is, tell it; but do not proclaim it hourly and unasked, like the watchman.

"If you will please people, you must please them in their own way; and, as you cannot make them what they should be, you must take them as they are."

LONG LIVE THE MAN—

Who finds the time for good reading or makes it.
Who does not get frightened when money talks.
Who is not afraid to listen to a speech with which he disagrees.
Who is not afraid of poverty nor deceived by wealth.
Who has the courage to await the verdict of time.
Who cannot be deceived by big type.
Who maintains his respect for facts in the midst of propaganda.

People talk about a single standard, but the simple truth is, women can forgive and men can't. Women have had so much more practice.

THOUGHTS WHILE SNORING

An enterprising tailor, it seems to me could make a very great killing on the side by improving the beauty lines of his male patients. The average tailor criticizes his customer's shape very cruelly, but he does nothing about it.

I think one's tailor should be one's best friend and severest critic, but correct the physiological imperfections he is wont to complain about.

Once I met such a tailor, and I shall never forget him. This was in Wichita, and I wasn't spending much with the tailor. Just the price of a summer suit every five years. But that tailor had the service yen.

He said, "Your waistline is up to thirty-six. It ought to be thirty-three. Next time you order a suit it will be forty-five, unless you do something about it. Now, I'm not going to make your clothes any bigger in the waist. It's ridiculous for a man of your age to be developing a paunch. You've got to train down to thirty-three again. You look terrible."

I was scared. I was ashamed. I was humble.

"What shall I do about it?" I pleaded. "I have no time for exercise, and I don't believe in golf. A motorcar costs too much—"

He cut me short. He dragged out an ordinary chair, sat sideways on it, hooked his toes under a table, and leaned back until his head touched the floor. Then he straightened up without using his hands.

"Does that take too much time?" he asked, snappily. I admitted it didn't.

"That's all you'll have to do. Once tonight. Twice tomorrow night. So on till you're doing it ten times, night and morning. Cut out potatoes. Keep it up till the waistline is down to thirty-three, and the suit will be ready to try on."

I did it, and I haven't taken any other exercise since. Don't need any other.

* * * *

Why shouldn't tailors perform these services for their customers, and charge for them? It's easy to get someone to tell you how hollow you are in the left shin and how full in the right; how your chest expansion waxing. The insurance examiners keep you informed about those interesting defects. But who does anything about it? Nobody!

A good tailor ought to be able to size up his man as he ought to be, make a suit to fit that man, and then knock the patient into the clothes. It might take a year to do it if the subject were far gone. But if a fellow knows he isn't going to get any clothes until he's fit for them, he's going to train, diet, and follow his tailor's orders.

First School Year Success

St. Joseph's Parochial School Closes Successful Term Friday

TWENTY ACHIEVE ATTENDANCE RECORD

St. Joseph's parochial school, conducted during the past year by the Franciscan Sisters, all of whom hold Pennsylvania normal certificates, came to a successful close of the first school year Friday morning.

This was the first year of the school and much good was accomplished in every way. There were 125 children enrolled and six grades conducted by the Franciscan Sisters, who were in charge.

Next year it is planned that the seventh and eighth grades will be added to the curriculum of the school and the growth and success of the school demands the building of a modern school in the near future.

Among the noteworthy features of the past school term is the fact that every pupil reached the required mark in the Palmer method of penmanship.

Rev. Father A. J. Weisenberger, the pastor, who before coming to New Castle was assistant superintendent of a parochial school having an attendance of over a thousand pupils, personally supervises this school and every up-to-date way and means is adopted to insure proficiency and efficiency.

The teachers leave nothing undone to bring the school to the enviable standard of the schools conducted by the same order in Pittsburgh.

Y Pool Calls To Hundred Men

Plunge In Pool Keeps Them Fit During Hot Sticky Days

How more than 100 men of New Castle keep away from that hot, sticky feeling during these sultry days was explained this morning by Walter E. Kirker, physical director at the Y. M. C. A.

"How do they do it?" says Mr. Kirker, "Why, they come to the Y. M. C. A. pool, which is by popular acclaim the coolest spot in the city. Each day these same men come to the pool, take a plunge, then a shower, and go away feeling much the better for their experience.

"For the benefit of those who wish to take advantage of the facilities of the Y during the summer months, special rates have been arranged. Those who wish to join for the summer are urged to come to the Y at once."

Parking Rule Violators Cause Two Accidents

Cars Parked In "No Parking" Zone On North Street Cause Mishaps

Violation of the city parking regulations, which prohibit parking on the south side of North street between Mercer and Mill streets, was the cause of two accidents in close succession at noon today. In each instance, according to witnesses, it was the fault of the machine parked on the forbidden section of the street that caused the wrecks.

The first of these occurred directly in front of the postoffice, when the cars of W. L. Munnell, R. D. No. 6, enroute west, and that of Thomas Dugan of Croton avenue, enroute east, came together, as the latter car attempted to pass between the Munnell car and a car parked in forbidden territory. The left front wheel of the Munnell car was torn off and the axle bent, while the left fender of the Dugan car was damaged. The car that caused the damage slipped away during the excitement.

This accident was scarcely over, when a second occurred in front of the Chamberlain & Cline Electric shop on North street. The car of Percy Walls was parked in front of the electric shop and W. J. Rhodes was enroute west. An American Railway Express company truck stopped in no parking territory to unload some good which, according to Rhodes, caused him to swerve his machine into the Walls machine. The damage was not heavy, a tire of the Walls machine being cut to some extent.

Representatives of the various Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite bodies of Pennsylvania, meeting here as a Council of Deliberation concluded their business session in the Scottish Rite Cathedral on Friday evening after being in session most of the afternoon.

Approximately 200 men were present of which about 55 were members of the Supreme Council. Following the business session a dinner was held in the dining room and a ball followed.

According to the members who attended the affair was most successful. This was but the fourth time in the history of the fraternity that the Council of Deliberation had ever met outside the City of Philadelphia.

Mere Youth Throws Stone; Damage Done

It was Charles Pherson, aged 6, of 505 Wildwood avenue, it was stated today by the father, who threw the stone that broke the windshield of the Henry Kline automobile, while it was being driven by a daughter of Mr. Kline on Delaware avenue. The little fellow with two companions of his own age, were engaged in a contest to see if they could throw a stone into the sewer catch basin across the street, when the car happened along and the stone did the damage. James Pherson, an older brother, was in no way concerned in the affair.

MILK STOLEN.

Mrs. Thorson, 426 Fairmont avenue, reported to the police this morning that the milk delivered this morning, had been stolen from her front porch.

Believe Boys Guilty Of Entering Garage

Atlantic Refining Company garage on Center street; was broken into some time last night. The persons breaking in were evidently more on search of creating some excitement than actual theft.

Taking down a number of fire extinquishers, they squirted the contents over the automobiles of the company. They also took one away with them.

It was evidently the work of boys and before Detective John Young and Officer Thomas Lynch were through with their investigation, they had ordered a number of boys in before the mayor, some of whom admitted they had been in on the affair.

AUTO AFIRE.

Mystery Seen In Numerous Arrests Of Southern Girl

Rumor That There Is "Inside Plot" Against Miss Vivian McDowell Page

(International News Service)

MEDIA, Pa., June 23.—Police are investigating the rumor that there is an "inside plot" behind the numerous arrests of Mrs. Vivian McDowell Page, former beauty queen of Mobile, Ala., who was released on bail yesterday and whose whereabouts today are somewhat of a mystery. The nature of the plot was not revealed by police.

Mrs. Page left here late yesterday with her husband, Donald, a young aviator, but is believed to be with friends somewhere in Delaware county or Philadelphia. Police are endeavoring to locate them to check on the maze of rumors. The beauty is free in $2,500 bail on charges of larceny preferred by a Chester resident. She is also being held under $500 bond to "keep the peace" which restrains her from appearing "in the public limelight."

Judge A. D. McDade required the beauty to sign the peace bond after he learned she planned to appear on the stage of a local theatre last night "to expose the pitfalls and dangers" which are caused by beauty pageants.

There being no other contest in sight, we offer $25,000 for the first successful trans-Atlantic non-photographed flight.

Indiana Delegates Favor Woollen, Not To Support Smith

(International News Service)

HOUSTON, Texas, June 23.—The Indiana delegation appeared lost to Gov. Al Smith today when A. C. Sallee, former Democratic national committeeman from the Hoosier state, announced the Indians would vote for Evans Woollen, their favorite son, "until a candidate is chosen."

Smith supporters were claiming a considerable number of Indiana delegates once the delegation left Woollen. According to Sallee, a personal representative of Woollen, no such contingency ever will arise.

PETER'S ADVENTURES IN ANIMAL LAND
BY MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

LLAMA LOSES HIS NERVE

"Oliver Ostrich was becoming very angry," Bobolink told his interested listeners, "his feathers ruffled, his body twitched and every now and then he would kick out fiercely with his foot.

"Wifie and I began to feel sorry for the Llama. Surely that creature was going to suffer for his impudence. And, to tell the truth, we wouldn't have blamed Oliver for anything that he might have done to the stranger. In his place we would not have kept our temper so long.

"Then an interruption occurred that made us wish that we were safe among the clovers of this old meadow. For a moment we began to think that the place for Bobolinks was certainly not on the plains of South Africa.

"'Grrrrrrrrr!' A low, angry growl, right close at hand, made our blood run cold. We Bobolinks could feel the pin feathers rising on our backs. Llama looked about nervously, as though searching for a place to hide. Oliver Ostrich trembled a little, but he stood his ground.

"'Good gracious, what is that?' cried I. Wifie snuggled up to me for protection. There was no use in our flying away until we found out what the matter was, and besides, we didn't know in which direction to fly.

"'Grrrrrrrrr!' Again came the sound that had so frightened us. Then, out from the depths of a thicket nearby stole the ugliest four-legs that you can imagine.

"First came a head with great glaring eyes, that gleamed yellow in the sunlight, and a wide, cruel mouth. And—like a cat—the creature had whiskers. When we saw those whiskers, we hated that creature at once. Slowly his body followed after his head. It was not a bit pretty—the coat he wore—it was a horrid brownish yellow, and all over it were queer rings and in spots it looked as if the yellow had washed off into a grimy white. Last of all appeared the tail, and what a tail it was—as long as half the creature himself.

"And what do you suppose that ugly creature did? He lay down on the ground and looked sort of stupid—with his eyes partly closed, and slowly moved his tail. When we saw him do this we stopped being afraid. We thought the fellow was going to sleep.

"But the Llama didn't think any such thing! Appearance didn't fool him. He looked this way. He looked that—. It was plain to be seen he was half scared to death!"

Next—"Strangely Familiar."

Cole Says Chain Stores Are Aiding In Civic Moves

Chain stores are taking a greater interest than ever before in community development in the cities where they operate, as a result of the program of cooperation being carried on by the National Association of Commercial Organization Secretaries, says a statement received today by James W. Cole, secretary of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce and a member of the national secretarial body.

From this work, started two months ago, chain systems are subscribing to local Chamber of Commerce budgets and agreeing to contribute to community chests on a basis comparable to that of local merchants.

To Make Drive To Aid Miners

Trades And Labor Assembly Plans Campaign Here July 9-14

GENEROUS RESPONSE SOUGHT IN CITY

A drive is to be made in this city July 9-14 inclusive, under the auspices of the union labor organizations affiliated with the Trades and Labor Assembly and the Building Trades Council, in the interest of the striking coal miners of the Allegheny valley district and their families.

The object of the drive is to provide these people with the necessities of life, such as clothing, foodstuffs of a non-perishable type and money will be most acceptable.

A great quantity of stuff is needed, owing to the thousands of people who must be taken care of, and it is hoped that the people of this city will give most generously of their abundance to these poor suffering people.

The stuff collected here will be delivered to the people for whom it is intended with the least possible overhead, there being no salaries or unnecessary expense incurred. It is proposed that the money, etc., given shall do a hundred cents on the dollar worth of good to the people for whom it is being collected.

Thomas L. Morgan, business agent of the Building Trades Council, and other local labor leaders are co-operating in the affair and they have been promised the co-operation of the mayor, the public press and of T. E. Smith, the latter furnishing a storeroom on Neshannock avenue where the stuff may be packed for shipment.

The local leaders are being assisted in the work by Peter Haser of New Kensington, a member of the miners' committee of sub-district No. 7 of district No. 7, which is better known as the Allegheny valley district, in the preliminary work.

Teddy's Kindly Widow Cheered Lonely Voyager Forgetting Own Grief

Mrs. Edith Roosevelt (a recent photo) and her son Quentin, who died in the World war

By IDAH McGLONE GIBSON

Specially Written for Central Press and New Castle News

When former President Roosevelt returned from his South American trip he was full of enthusiasm about the beauty of a celebrated falls he had seen in the interior. He talked about it so much it was tactily determined that he and Mrs. Roosevelt would go there, together, some day. But alas! Before that "some day" came he had passed on to the never-never-land to join their youngest son Quentin, who had died on the field of France, in the great World War.

Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt believed that she must keep the tryst with her husband and, three years ago, she started out, with a woman companion to make the trip to South America.

Before she arrived at the Falls, her friend was taken ill and the pilgrimage had to be given up.

Two years ago she again took the South American trip alone. With her usual good sense and beautiful lack of self-consciousness, she made friends with every one on the trip—not as the widow of a former president of the United States—but as a companion on shipboard, and all the other passengers respected her wishes and paid her only the ordinary deference due a lady traveling alone.

The only thing they did do to show their respect and admiration was when they arrived at any port, to refrain from leaving the ship until after Mrs. Roosevelt.

Another's Sorrow

On the boat, all alone, was a little old man who seemed bowed down with grief. Apparently, each day of the trip only added to his sorrow. Studiously he avoided every one on board and spent most of his waking hours sitting quietly in his deck chair looking longingly across the trackless waste of water as if his eyes, sometimes dim with tears, were trying to pierce the veil of that separated and marked the place "where earth ended and heaven began."

One day his story was told—I will let him recount it in his own pathetic words:

"This is the first time in all my life that I ever took a trip that my Rebecca was not with me and I am very sorrowful. Before the war came, I was very happy with my fours sons; they all answered their country's call. First the eldest, then the other two in turn. My youngest son joined the colors the moment he was old enough.

"My Rebecca began to grieve the moment he went away, and when the official word came that he had been killed at Chateau Thierry it seemed as though she did not want to live any longer.

"All the others came back, but still her heart seemed broken and, although my business prospered greatly, my Rebecca faded away and died.

"After my Rebecca died, my three boys were goodness itself to me. But all was ashes, nothing was right. Finally my boys seemed to think that I might regain some little forgetfulness, if not happiness, if I had a change of scene and they persuaded me to take this trip. I have tried to get interested, but all I can think of is—that I am alone."

Mrs. Roosevelt's Kindness

Whether Mrs. Roosevelt overheard this or someone, moved by the pathos of his story, told it to her, I do not know, but he appeared on deck some days later with the first gleam of interest and hope that any of the passengers had seen in his eyes. Later, as he sat in his deck chair, Mrs. Roosevelt passed by.

With the characteristic impulsiveness of his race, the man turned to a woman who sat next to him and said: "Do you know what that wonderful woman said to me this morning? She said, 'I am very sorry to have met you, sir, for I feel that the stories of our lives are much alike. We have much in common. We each have had four sons all of whom enlisted in the great war. Only three of yours came back and my youngest boy is lying on French soil. You have lost your life-long companion and so have I, and yet I feel that we must not give up. We must carry on until the end. Not only because of those who are left, but for the honor of those who are gone.'"

For a moment the man's voice trembled and stopped, then he said: "I did not weep while that blessed woman said these things to me. My heart was weeping, but I did not let a tear drop from my eyes. But after she went away I went down to my cabin and I cried for hours until my grief-burdened soul could weep no longer."

The woman to whom this story was told observed that every day thereafter Mrs. Roosevelt took particular pains to single this man out for some little act of kindness.

Air Mail Planes May Stop Here

Suggested That Pittsburgh-Cleveland Planes May Use Local Airport

The Pittsburgh-Cleveland air mail route has cut off the Youngstown airport, to be used in the future only as an emergency stop, is reported to The News today by John R. Dunfee, city manager of the Bell Telephone company.

"Why, with Jackson field, cannot New Castle be made a stop on the Cleveland-Pittsburgh air mail route, thus putting New Castle on the air map for good?" asks Mr. Dunfee. "I am sure that this is a project worthy of the closest cooperation of the Chamber of Commerce and the other civic organizations.

"In Jackson field, New Castle has what the government claims to be one of the finest airports in western Pennsylvania. Already it is an emergency field for the New York-Chicago air route. I cannot see why it could not be made a stop on the Pittsburgh-Cleveland route."

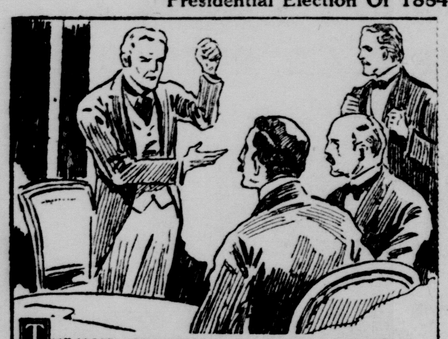
HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

By J. Carroll Mansfield

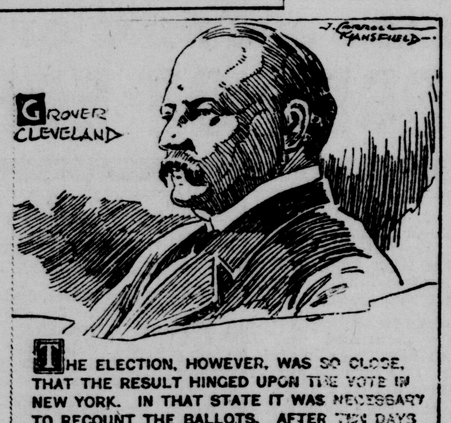
Presidential Election Of 1884



THE YEAR 1884 WITNESSED ANOTHER EXCITING PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION. THE REPUBLICANS NOMINATED JAMES G. BLAINE, CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT. THE RADICAL REFORM WING OF THE PARTY, WHICH WAS NOW DEMANDING A REVISION OF THE TARIFF AND STRICT ECONOMY IN NATIONAL EXPENDITURES, WAS NOT SATISFIED WITH THE ACTION OF THE NATIONAL CONVENTION, AND A SPLIT FOLLOWED.

THESE REFORMERS WERE SCORNFULLY TERMED "MUGWUMPS" BY THE "REGULAR" REPUBLICANS. THE DEMOCRATS HAD NOMINATED GROVER CLEVELAND, WHO HAD GIVEN EXCELLENT SERVICE AS GOVERNOR OF NEW YORK, AND THE "MUGWUMPS", BELIEVING THAT CLEVELAND WOULD PROMOTE THEIR REFORMS, DESERTED THEIR PARTY STANDARD-BEARER, AND JOINED FORCES WITH THE DEMOCRATS.

THE PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN WAS ONE OF BITTER ABUSE AND "MUD-SLINGING". THE USE OF AN OBNOXIOUS PHRASE IN A POLITICAL ADDRESS BY ONE OF BLAINE'S SUPPORTERS COST THE REPUBLICANS MANY VOTES, AND THE FACT THAT BLAINE ATTENDED A BANQUET WITH SOME OF THE WEALTHIEST MEN IN THE COUNTRY WAS USED TO BRAND HIM AS AN ENEMY OF THE POOR.



THE ELECTION, HOWEVER, WAS SO CLOSE, THAT THE RESULT HINGED UPON THE VOTE IN NEW YORK. IN THAT STATE IT WAS NECESSARY TO RECOUNT THE BALLOTS. AFTER TEN DAYS OF SUSPENSE, IT WAS ANNOUNCED THAT CLEVELAND HAD WON, AND THE DEMOCRATS CAME INTO POWER, FOR THE FIRST TIME IN TWENTY-FOUR YEARS.

Mae Murray Has Baby Son, Born Over Year Ago

Revealed Today That Mae Murray Gave Birth To Child 16 Months Ago

FATHER IS PROUD OF LITTLE TOT

(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 23—Telegrams of felicitation flowed today to Mae Murray, congratulating her on being the mother of a golden-haired son whose existence has been kept a secret for 16 months by the blonde stage and screen star and her titled husband, Prince David Mdivani.

The prince broke the news to an astonished Hollywood when the paternity of the youngster was sought by puzzled friends of the couple.

"Yes, it is true," he admitted, smiling. "He is my son—our son. He was born here and I would have been proud to have the whole world know 6 months ago save for the effect it might have had upon my wife's career. So many people think actresses should not have children."

For months the only world known to the baby boy was bounded by the walls of Miss Murray's home in Westwood. A Japanese nurse attended to his wants, and a Japanese butler kept intruders away from the walled-in garden where he played in the sunshine.

Miss Murray, who divorced Robert Leonard, motion picture director in Paris three years ago, became the bride of Prince Mdivani of Georgia in June, 1926, at a Beverly Hills wedding attended by scores of celebrities of the screen world.

One swallow may not make a Summer, but two dilapidated rows of beans and onions will stimulate daily oratory about the wonderful garden.—The Terre-Haute Star.

Reed Declares He's In Battle Until Finish

(International News Service)

HOUSTON, June 23.—Senator James A. Reed, father of the Senate's slush fund inquiries and the "Fighting Jim" of Missouri Democracy, today announced his fight for the Democratic presidential nomination would be carried "to the end of the road."

In brief but characteristic interview with newspaper men, Reed smilingly declared the Missiouri delegation was confident of nominating him. He did not mention Governor Al Smith of New York, his principal rival, but he did serve notice there would be no compromise in his battle for the nomination.

"The only maxim Missouri knows is: To the end of the road," said Reed. "That is road, not rope, as everybody once got it."

Elisco Admitted To $10,000 Bail; Given Freedom

Verdict Against Weight Of Evidence Principal Reason For Asking New Trial

COURT WILL HEAR ARGUMENTS ON CASE

Frank Elisco, convicted of manslaughter in connection with the shooting of Antonio Di Rauso, was admitted to bail and released from the county jail this morning. Judge Hildebrand fixed the bail at $10,000, upon petition presented by Elisco's attorneys, Graham, Wilkison and Dickey. This was furnished by two friends of Elisco.

Decision to admit Elisco to bail came as a result of an application for a new trial. Reasons for the new trial will be filed by Elisco's attorneys within the next few days.

The notes of testimony will be written out in long hand, after which the case will be placed on the argument list. Following the arguments Judge Hildebrand will hand down his decision as to whether or not he will grant a new trial.

Would Sale Of Conduit System End City's Power?

Or Could It Grant A Franchise To Competing Company To Lay A Conduit?

Appropos of the proposed sale of the city conduit system for $65,000, the question is being asked as to whether or not, if the conduit system is sold for this or any other amount, it forever bars the city from granting a franchise to any other company to lay conduits on city streets. Also would the sale of the system carry with it the right to extend the present conduit system?

A city government can legally do two things, according to prominent attorneys. As a municipality it can pass ordinances and make laws. As a corporation it can make contracts and do business. Under its governing powers it can pass or repeal ordinances. If the contracts are made they cannot be repealed.

The question arises as to whether the city is doing business or governing in the proposed sale of the conduit. The old ordinance under which the conduit was built was passed before the public service commission came into existence. A new ordinance comes since the public service commission was established. What is the effect is another question being asked.

There are certain acts of the city as a governing body that cannot be broken. For instance its police power, under which it looks after the protection of the health, safety and welfare of citizens. It canont contract them away. The question is as to whether the conduit system would come under this clause. There appears to be considerable division of opinion on the matter.

Drop Supplies To Nobile's Crew

Swedish Plane Locates Gen. Nobile And Part Of Crew

TEN OF CREW ARE NOT YET LOCATED

(International News Service)

ROME, June 23.—A powerful, Swedish, tri-motored Junkers seaplane has located the stranded Nobile party on the ice off the coast of Northeast land dropping weapons, storage batteries and rubber boats, said a radiogram from King's Bay this afternoon. The occupants of the plane spotted the Nobile encampment upon the ice at 8:30 last night and dropped supplies attached to parachutes.

Commander Tornberg, pilot of the plane, plans to equip it with runners for a landing on the ice. Then he hopes, he can pick up the six members of the Nobile group and carry them to King's Bay.

Weather conditions have improved off the northern coast of Spitzbergen.

The commander of the Nobile supply ship Citta Di Milano sent a wireless request that search be made for the seven member of the Nobile expedition who were carried away with the envelope of the dirigible Italia when it was wrecked on May 25 in a storm. In addition to these seven men three others are missing. They are Dr. Finn Malmgren, Capt. Alberto Mariano and Capt. Filippo Zappi who set out across the ice to try to reach land after the wreck of the balloon.

So far no word has been received of the fate of Capt. Roald Amundsen, Lieut. Leif Dietrichsen and Rene Guilbaud who have been missing since Monday, when they set out from Tromsoe, Norway, to try to aid the explorers.

Major Penzo, Italian aviator, sent word he would hop off at North Cape this afternoon to try to locate the Amundsen party.

Roaming Round With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

The Old Settler sat on the rail out at the park last night, watching the crowd of young people dance. As he watched, there was a far away look in his eye and a rather reminiscent flip of his chin as he spat out part of a Wheeling stogie.

"It certainly is amazing," he remarked as he shifted one leg across the other and prepared to watch the folks gyrate through the strains of "Mississippi Mud".

"What's amazing?" asked the Young Squirt, who was searching his pockets for another half dollar for tickets.

"The way you folks dance," said the Old Settler. "There must be 150 couples out there, and if there are any two couples doing the same dance, then I'll buy you another strip."

"Back in my day we danced, but son, them was days as was dancin'. Virginia Reels, Sir Roger de Coverley's, Schottisches, and later on the new fangled waltz. But today, you don't see much evidence of those old steps. A fellow has to be active in his knee joints to get anywhere with these modern dances and as for any schedule of steps, there just hain't none. In those days dances were dignified."

"The girls wore hoop skirts in those days, didn't they?" queried the Young Squirt. "They did," was the answer.

"Well, that's the reason they were dignified. They couldn't be anything but dignified in a hoop skirt. Put the clothes of today on the girl of 50 years ago, and you'd have the same result."

This story is vouched for as absolutely true. That is, it is vouched for by the chap who gave it to me. A few days ago some workmen were cleaning the stone of the new First National bank. The elevator shaft had just been oiled and every time the lift went up or down it splashed minute particles of oil on the side of the building.

The foreman came around and seeing the oil on the building blamed one of the workmen.

"Nor, sir," said the workman, "I didn't do it, but I'll tell you how that oil got on the side of the building. One of those airplanes was flying up above us, and he did the loop-the-loop and as he turned over his crankcase upset and the oil splashed down on the building."

Some of the proprietors of restaurants in the city may have noticed a rather mysterious shortage in the slot boxes of the mechanical pianos lately.

Some of the help may have been suspicioned, for if the piano plays for two hours at a stretch there ought to be a lot of nickels in the slot.

Nobody has been looting the till, but here is the reason. The wall boxes at the tables are wired, and in most cases these electric wires are run down the wall in plain view. Now the only thing the nickel does is to form an electrical contact.

Ergo, isn't it simple to scrape off the insulation from the wires, and form a contact with a table knife? And that is the reason why some of the mechanical pianos have been grinding out a lot of free music lately.

The Lehigh Portland Cement company plans a very nice party a week today. The safety trophy the plant has won is ready for dedication and next Saturday will be the day. The invitation says music, refreshments and addresses. Heavy on the first two, please.

This would be a splendid opportunity for Wes Davy to deliver a scientific lecture on his whiskered fish.

Fellow Rotarian:

A song service is the order of the day. And we will have a solo by Prexy. This will be a song arranged by himself and the words are the results of twelve month's personal efforts. The name of this song?

"Swan Song"

Following this song, he will turn the gavel over to the incoming president, Welty O. Rugh, the successful candidate of the Presbyterian party.

The past year has been a very happy year. Prexy has practised and preached his interpretation of Rotary until today, the lions and the lambs lie down together. The Rotary club of New Castle is the better for his leadership.

Following names are published for the usual ten day period:

Scott Paisley and Ellwood Gilbert attended Sharon rotary. Alf Chilton attended in Youngstown. Rex Patch, Frank Burton and Ira Ramsey are attending the Rotary International convention.

If You Should Move —What?

NATIONAL RETAIL CREDIT ASSOCIATION — CHARACTER

If you should move to another city and apply for credit, what do you suppose would happen?

Within one hour or less time your record—the record you made in New Castle—would be as an open book to the merchants of your new home city. In self defense, and as a protection for the honest buyer, the credit men of the United States have so perfected their organization that there is no point, however small, which cannot avail itself of every facility for knowing who and what you are.

The merchant does not make your credit rating. That is one thing that you and you alone can control.

The merchants of this community expect the payment of your accounts in full by the tenth of the month following date of purchase. If you cannot pay your bills in full, at least go to your merchant and make some arrangement that is satisfactory to him. Whether you be rich or poor, credit is your greatest asset.

A prompt pay rating in the New Castle Credit Exchange will be your best friend when you move to another city among strangers.

It is never up hill to the man on the level.

Sergt. F. L. Florida Tells Of His Trip To Europe; And Battlefield Visits

Staff Sergeant Forest L. Florida of Company B, 125th Engineers Mtd., who was selected to represent the local National Guard organization in the Escort of Honor of Pennsylvania which visited France and dedicated quite a number of monuments erected by Pennsylvania in honor of her soldiers of the World War, has a most interesting story to tell concerning the trip.

The story which follows tell all the features of the trip. He says:

The members of the Escort of Honor of Pennsylvania were required and did report at Philadelphia at the armory by 10 a. m Monday May 14. Upon arrival there each man was required to turn in his enlistment record and equipment record.

As soon as that had been completed and we had paid for our meals there for the balance of the week we then filled out our passports and had our pictures taken for the passport. Promptly at 1:45 in the afternon the Escort fell into formation and the officers of the Escort formed us into four separate companies numbered 1, 2 3 and 4. Due to the fact that there were so many first sergeants who had been selected to go with this Escort No. 1 company was composed of first sergeants entirely, the other three companies were formed without regard to rank.

Number 1 company was to represent the 55th Infantry Brigade, second company represented 56th Infantry Brigade, third company represented 53rd Artillery Brigade and fourth company represented the 52nd Cavalry Brigade..

Company B's representative was in Number 2 company in command of which was Captain R. E. Goodridge of the 110th Infantry of Washington, Pa., the second in command was Capt. H. A. Prentiss of Wilkes-Barre Pa.

Starting with Monday afternoon the Battalion was drilled at the armory in Philadelphia and squad platoon company and battalion drilled.

In order that every man would be dressed and equipped alike the state of Pennsylvania purchased and donated melton cloth uniform and the Jacob Reed company of Philadelphia presented each man with a barracks cap of the same material Such web equipment as had been taken to Philadelphia by the men and new equipment issued.

On Thursday afternoon the battalion was reviewed by city officials and National Guard officers. Friday morning May 18 the battalion paraded in Philadelphia before city and National Guard officials. The battalion left Philadelphia Saturday morning May 19 over the Reading railroad and sailed on the Steamship George Washington from Hoboken, N. J., just about noon.

The trip over to Cherbourg France was without any particular incidents occurring. Each day a short drill was held on the deck mostly in the mannual of arms as the deck was not large enough to hold even squad drill. The weather on the way over was rather cool with rain every evening as soon as the sunset. We sighted very few ships going over but those of us who were on deck at the time saw two whales and later a school of large fish was seen, probably Dolphins or Porpoises.

The ship arrived at Cherbourg at 9 p. m., Sunday May 27 and we were taken by boat train to Paris arriving there about 5:15 Monday morning. Those of us who had an idea that French trains did not make very much speed were due for a surprise for at times the train made over 70 miles an hour making what was ordinarily the seven hour run in five hours..

On Monday morning the batallion participated in a ceremony at the Unknown Soldier's grave. On Tuesday morning the Escort of Honor left Paris in busses for Fismes where a bridge was dedicated to the 28th Division. From Fismes we went to Chaloness Marne where we stayed over night The next morning the battalion proceeded to Muese-Argonne cemetery at Romagne where memorial services were held. This is an American cemetery and 14,095 American soldiers who died in that section are buried. From there we went to Jarennes where the Colonnade erected in memory of Pennsylvania soldiers was dedicated.

Then to Nantillos where a monument was dedicated. General Pershing made his first apearance here. We were rather surprised to see him as he had been opposed to this pilgrimage. This dedication completed the purposes for which the Escort of Honor had been selected and sent to France.

The balance of our stay was devoted to sight seeing. During our trips to these towns where the dedications took place we either passed through or in some cases stopped at quite a few towns, some of them were La Villery noted for the fact that this point the French soldiers were sent in taxies from Paris to stop the advance of the Germans in the first battle of the Marne in 1916. Claye, where General Foch had his headquarters for several years during the war, Meaux the high line of the German advance, a German patrol of Uhlanes reaching this town but the German front line did not; Trilport Bridge on the Marne river 23½ miles from Paris the high line of the German advance; Belleau Woods(the scene of one of the severest batles in which American soldiers took part.

We also stopped at the Aiane-Marne cemetery just beyond Belleau Woods, 2,268 American soldiers are buried there. One of the members of the Escort had a father who was killed in that section and he was successful in finding his father's grave.

Chateau Thierry another place where Americans fought also Reims, Montfaucon. The battalion stayed over night on Memorial day at Verdun. The next day we were taken to one of the forts that had defended Verdun. This was Ft. DeVaux, once considered the strongest in the world but now practically destroyed. The fields around this fort still contain many bodies and high explossive shells and men are working continually throughout this section digging up bodies and shells. We also saw the Trench of Bayonets, so called because in 1916 either a shell explosion or a bomb explosion caused a section of the French trenches to collapse burying quite a number of French soldiers just as they were about to "go over the top." This trench has been left just as it was and a monument erected over it. The gun barrels with the bayonets still attached and dead men's hands still hold the rifles. Near this place the French government is erecting a large tomb in which when completed will be buried the ashes of 400,000 men who died in the defense of Verdun. We were also taken through the famous Valley of Death where more than a million men died on both sides in the war without either side being able to dislodge the other from the hills on both sides of this valley.

Some sections of the country that we went through had been completely restored and in these sections practically every house is new with very little traces of the war left. Other places like Ft. DeVaux, Dead Man's Hill, Pepper Hill, Belleau Woods, The Argonne Forest are still in practically the same condition that they were at the close of the war. Many places we passed through, even the dug-outs, the barbed-wire entanglements and the shell holes are to be seen. Some of the result of the war was particularly noticeable at Dead Man's Hill, from the point where we went over this hill we were able to see for probably 10 miles in each direction and they were so many shell holes that the rim of one practically touched the next to it. Pepper Hill just beyond, got its name because there were so many shell holes around the hill that it reminded one of the top of a pepper shaker.

Quite a few bodies are still being found on these battlefields and we are told that an average of five were being found every month. We saw several towns in the vicinity of Verdun that had been completely destroyed and are now abandoned and in some cases the new towns built a mile away. We spent four days on the battlefields and returned to Paris on the night of June 1 and the balance of the time was spent in Paris. The tourist agency that handled the tour took us over Paris in busses so that we were in most of the sections of Paris, but as our stay was so short there were a great many things we would have liked to have seen but could not.

The same condition existed on our tour through the battlefields. We had a set schedule ta live up to and the result was we stopped very few places, and the majority of our sight-seeing was from the busses on the way to our diferent destinations for the day. Approximately half of the men in the Escort of Honor had been over there during the war and they said that the conditions of the country now were such that it was hard for them to recognize even some of the towns wrere they had been quartered for considerable periods of time.

We left Paris on Thursday June 7, sailing from Cherbourg on the George Washington and arrived at Philadelphia June 15. During the trip back the Escort of Honor was formed into a permanent organization and named The Pennsylvania Escort of Honor association with Major L. L. Deininger of the 111th Infantry who was in command of the Escort as the commander of the association and Capt. William P. Dex of the 108th Field Artilery as adjutant. The purposes of the association are primarily to keep the men in touch with one another and to further the interest of the National Guard of Pennsylvania. Different posts have been formed. No. 1 post being composed of members from the western part of Pennsylvania and No. 2 post composed of members from the eastern part of Pennsylvania. It is expected that a third post will be formed for those members who live in the central part of Pennsylvania.

In regard to the adoption of a little girl who was the daughter of an American war veteran and a French bride by the Escort of Honor association, she and ser father came aboard ship at Cherbourg. He had been stricken with tuberculosis contracted in the service and was making an effort to come home before he died as it was apparent that he would not be able to live but a short time. The matter was brought before the association and the little girl was legally adopted by the association who will as she grows older assist her in every way possible either financially or otherwise. Quite a large sum of money was collected on board ship and turned over to the little girl as she would be practically destitute when her father died.

This veteran's name was Captain James Eaton and he died in the Bellevue hospital at New York the following day after the ship arrived at Hoboken, N. J. The little girl was taken by Capt. Robert M. Clutch to his home in Darby Pa., where she will remain with his wife until plans for her education have been completed.

Foster's Weather Prognostication

WASHINGTON, June 23.—A sotrm wave of mild intensity is expected to cross continent in northern transcontinental storm path during week centering on June 25; principal influence of this storm center will be lower average temperatures and general increase in average precipitation June 25 to 30. A storm wave of severe intensity will cross continent in central storm path during week centering on June 30, causing below normal temperatures and above normal precipitation; severe local storms and excessive precipitation will be expected during passage of this storm center. Such storms usually, when traveling the central storm path, cause most severe weather in northern half of cotton belt.

During July a gradual drift eastward will be expected in location of area of heaviest precipitation; precipitation during April 1 to June 30 was expected to be heaviest in area centering on meridian 90 but in fact has probably centered somewhat east of that line; sections 2, 4 and 6 will be expected to receive heaviest precipitation during July, but average precipitation of the continent will be expected to decrease after July 1. Quarter phases of the moon occur as follows: First Quarter June 24, Full Moon July 3, Last Quarter June 10, New Moon July 17, First Quarter July 24, Full Moon August 1. Details of July cropweather forecasts will appear in next weekly bulletin.

Our Moon

The principal force arriving at the Earth in such manner as to influence atmospheric changes comes direct from the Sun; normal conditions in our atmosphere, the daily averages of one hundred or more years of past experience, will show the combined influence of Sun force and Earth's annual movement around the Sun. The positions of planets relative to Sun's center cause variations in the movement of force between Sun and Earth and cause what is known as spots in Sun's envelope is beyond doubt; that our Moon influences the reception of force and the movement of atmospheric changes in the Earth's envelope is also beyond doubt. These influences are so many and varied, their periodic interwoven and complicated that to give empiracle or certain influence to any combination of positions, movements, cycles, etc., would be likely to enable a forecaster of atmospheric changes to be correct less than half of the time. A scientist, investigator, or other, whether in government service or not, would not be able to form any valuable opinion as to planetary or Moon influence without thorough research and mathematical calculation.

Pastor Files Suit For Big Damages

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 23.—Dr. Frank Dyer, pastor of the fashionable Wilshire Boulevard Congregational church, recently ousted by the Congregational Ministerial association on charges of conduct unbecoming a minister, has filed suit for $100,000 damages against his former assistant, Dr. Charles F. Aked, charging slander.

Dr. Aked, who led the anti-Dyer faction in the church, was quoted in the complaint as having publicly accused his associate of being "a man of savage passion, ruthless and a liar ingrained."

The charges which resulted in Dr. Dyer's ejection from the ministerial association involved a woman organist in the pastor's church.

Dr. Aked formerly was pastor of the Fifth Avenue Baptist church of New York and held pastorates in Kansas City and San Francisco.

Withdraws Case From Jury After Testimony Is In

Unusual Ending To Case In Lawrence County Court On Friday Afternoon

After proceeding with the case up to the point where all testimony was in and the case ready for argument to the jury, Attorney A. Martin Graham withdrew the plea of his client Mike Prescovitch and entered a plea of Nolle Contendere in court Friday afternoon. The jury was discharged from further consideration of the case.

Prescovitch was charged with possession of a large quantity of wine. He admitted the possession of the wine but appartnely his defense was being built around the contention that it was fruit juices made within the meaning of the law, which entitles a farmer to make cider or other fruit juices for vinegar. A recent decision handed down from the higher courts buttresses the commonwealth's position in the case and Attorney Graham asked that the jury be withdrawn and that his client be allowed to change his plea. The jury in this case was a rather unusual one in asmuch as there were seven women on it.

In the case of the commonwealth against W. L. McAnallen, charged with possession of liquor, the jury returned a verdict of not guilty but pay the costs. In the case against Kenneth Strohecker, charged with rape, a verdict of guilty was returned.

LEVINSKY AND ROCCO BATTLE MONDAY

Rocco Fit For Gruelling Bout

Grouch Shows That Ellwood Boy Is On Edge For "Big Shot"

DUNN TO HANDLE ELLWOOD BATTLER

CLEVELAND, June 23.—When a fighter wears a grouch 48 hours preceding a bout, it does not augur well for an opponent, and if this be true, Battling Levinsky has plenty of work cut out for him when he battles Emmett Rocco of Ellwood City Monday night at New Castle, Pa.

Emmett showed himself to be in the pink of condition Saturday, as he was grouchy with Young Firpo and Eddie Conrad. He boxed Firpo six fast rounds and topped it off with four against Conrad, and he cuffed them all over the gymnasium. Being fast, they escaped many hard punches, but their bodies were florid when the end came.

Dunn Pleased

Jimmie Dunn showed a broad smile when the fighter stepped to the "rubbing table" and saw the temperament his protege displayed. "Feeling pretty good, aren't you, Emmett?" asked Dunn. "Never better in my life," gruffly replied Rocco as Joe Cumo, his manager, Frankie Rio and Mickie Dugan crowded about the "Tarzan".

Rocco has been put through a rigid course of boxing and training by Dunn, who will handle Rocco at New Castle. Dunn was not at Akron when he fought Levinsky the first time, and it is said that fans will see a much improved Ellwood City heavyweight when he removes his bathrobe and steps out to box Levinsky at New Castle.

Work Out Tomorrow

Rocco, accompanied by Jimmie Dunn, his trainer and advisor, Joe Cumo, his mannager, and Young Firpo, will leave Cleveland late Saturday night. The party will register at the Leslie Hotel and the day before the bout Rocco will go through limbering-up calisthenics at the Jimmie Dime gymnasium.

FANS 'WARMING UP' FOR BIG 'GO' HERE

By ED FRITZ
Sports Editor.

Open air boxing will be ushered into 1928 existence at Jolly bowl Monday night when Battling Levinsky and Emmett Rocco, heavyweights, clash in a 10-round bout.

According to an estimate provided by Promoter Bill Jolly today, 5,000 fans will be in the bowl when the lights flash on what may be only one of New Castle's big battles this summer.

Promoter Jolly calendared Levinsky against Rocco owing to the controversy which resulted in Akron when Levinsky was given a newspaper decision over the Ellwood City boy.

Levinsky has trained in Philadelphia and Rocco has been put through the "traces" at Cleveland. They should be in the pink of condition when the bell rings.

Newspaper writers from nearby cities have been assigned to cover the bout and officials and prominent men from here and nearby cities have arranged to witness the show.

According to attaches of the bowl there will be hundreds of ladies at the show as reservations have already been made by husbands and brothers who will accompany them.

The bowl is situated at the intersection of Grant and Sampson streets and its seating arrangement consists of about 1,000 ringside and reserve seats and 4,000 bleacher seats.

Close against the ring proper desks have been built for the accommodation of sport scribes. The timekeeper, judges and physician will also occupy seats close against the ring.

Flood of Light.

There are three rows of ringside seats. To their rear are about 10 rows of reserve seats, which are separated by a railing and aisle from the bleachers.

The bleachers which have been built in the formation of a circle extend 20 or 25 feet in the air. There are 11 tiers and on top is a walk along which a railing has been built.

There are four entrances, three to be used by spectators and one for the use of employes of whom will be police, ushers, boxers, managers and seconds.

Persons with ringside and reserve tickets will enter the Grant street gate and persons holding general admission tickets will enter the bowl thruogh two entrances on Sampson street.

Policemen will regulate the flow of patrons to all of the windows, through the gates when ushers will direct the fans to seats.

While these policemen are busy, police and several firemen will circulate through the bowl and two patrolmen will be assigned to the top row of bleachers to keep check on every move.

All of the lights will be turned on as soon as the first cloud of darkness descends. Lights have been placed all around the bowl, inside and outside.

Directly over the ring is a special lighting system which will flood the ring with illumination when the rest of the bowl lights are extinguished, which is done during the progress of a bout.

Red lights will designate the exits and the doors have been built to swing outward. The aisles are wide and the rows of seats have been built and placed to furnish lots of leg room.

Commission in Charge.

The first bout is scheduled to go on at 9 o'clock daylight savings time and immediately before the pugilists enter the ring the officials will be announced.

The state boxing commissioner, Harvey Boyle, does this personally or through deputies and before a boxer can "go" or a bout be staged, every point of law must be obeyed.

The referee will call the participants to the center of the ring and issue instructions. All of the boxers know the rules and this is merely a formality.

They'll return to the corner, the bell will ring, the lights all over the bowl excepting the ring proper will be extinguished and the "fight" will commence.

There are several well known boys on the card. First will come Young Pansy of Midland and Terry McManus of Pittsburgh. McManus fought at the Old Armory. They weigh 112.

The next bout will be staged by Johnny Slate of the West Side and Romeo Pacelli of the South Side. These boys weigh 128.

Henry Slate, brother to Johnny, will meet a Pittsburgh boxer, Young Harris, in the first six-round bout as the preceding bouts will be of four rounds. These boys weigh 135.

The semi-finals will bring together Young Firpo, Louisville, who outpointed Red Jadabird at the Old Armory and Joe Midway of this city. They are middleweights.

Following these bouts Levinsky and Rocco will emerge from their dressing rooms and then stuff their ears with cotton. There'll be a bedlam of shouting to be ended only when the "go" starts.

Levinsky Due Here Tomorrow

"Ready For Rocco", Ex-Champion Tells His Manager, Al Lippe

HOPES TO KEEP RECORD UNSULLIED

PHILADELPHIA, June 23—Battling Levinsky, former light-heavyweight champion of the world, ended heavy training this morning and will depart Saturday night to reach New Castle Sunday, preparatory to his 10-round boxing bout with Emmett Rocco of Ellwood City, at Jolly Bowl, New Castle, Monday night.

After romping through 10 rounds with three training partners he pulled the "weights", wrestled and when he entered the shower baths the exertion he had gone through failed to show itself, proving that the battler who has participated in hundreds of gruelling ring fights is in excellent condition.

Must Win, He Says

As the Battler lay on a table a massage artist went to work on his lithe body. "I'm ready for Rocco," said Levinsky to his manager, Al Lippe. "I know he is a husky young boy with a ponderous punch and a stout heart, but I believe I can beat him. I must if I want to again reach the championship which I once held."

Levinsky has trained for the Rocco bout in such a manner that leaves no doubt as to what condition he has attained. He understands from experience with Emmett at Akron that he is not meeting an ordinary heavyweight, but one who's punch means ruin, and a fighter who is not down until knocked down.

Expects Big Crowd

While the former light-heavyweight champion's heavy training is through, he will limber up at Jimmie Dime's gymnasium the day before the bout. According to Al Lippe, he has made arrangements to register at The Castleton. Levinsky will return to Philadelphia Tuesday, the day following the battle, which is expected to draw 5,000 fans.

Speaking of marksmanship de luxe, a coast guard patrol boat fired 4 one-pound shells at a rum running vessel scoring 4 hits. And not a bottle of the $120,000 cargo was broken.—The Saginaw Daily News.

George Textor and his aggregation of Centennials have a busy afternoon today as New Castle O & P will clash first with Ryantown and in the grand finale meet Akron of the O & P loop.

Ryantown heads the National division of the Twilight circuit and Lintz, Wilcox or Winters will pitch against Jewie Coen, former sandlotter who is now hurling for New Castle.

Akron will probably send big Jim Vaughn to the mound against Mosely in the second half of the twin bill and if Vaughn is right the second clash should be worth seeing.

The first game starts at 2:15 p. m. and it will be finished in time to allow the Akronites to go to bat against the Centennials at 3:15 p. m. Daylight Savings time.

ITALIANS TRIM RADIATORS 9-1

The Italian A. C. continued their winning streak in the National section of the Twilight League on Friday night at the Radiator field, by toppling the Radiator A. C. 9 to 1, in a postponed game.

Chick Chafe, formerly a semi-pro pitcher of Akron, and now with the Roberson-Smith players at the Capitol Theatre, was on the knoll for the Radiator A. C. and held the Italians to six hits during his stay on the hill, he fanned two men and walked six. Liversage finished the game for the Radiators. Chafe was given miserable support. Chafe saved his team from a shutout by scoring the lone run with the aid of O. Bradley who singled.

Turco and Kirker labored for the Italians and held the Radiators to seven hits. Carl Gennock with a triple and three of the Italian runs was the star of the game, while Fahey and Tippy Richards also shared the lime light by hitting for doubles.

Frankie Ross playing in a pinch role for the Italians, was the fielding star of the game, leaping high into the air and bringing down a wicked liner with one-hand, to stop a tally in the sixth inning. The hit looked good for two bases, but Ross speared it for a putout.

Chafe and O. Bradley were the stars for the Radiator A. C.

Yale Rowing Team Defeats Harvard In Gruelling Race

(International News Service)

NEW LONDON, June 23.—Yale, by virtue of its overwhelming victory over Harvard in their annual regatta on the Thames last evening, stands forth today with every likelihood of being America's representative in the Olympic rowing championship races at Amsterdam next month.

Not in many years has there been welded together a crew combining such tremendous power and speed with almost perfect oarsmanship, as Yale exhibited in what was promised as an even battle with its most ancient rival, but which almost from the very beginning degenerated into a procession, with the blue toying with a huge but helpless Harvard crew.

It's nothing very unusual these days to find mother and daughter graduating in the same class, but the strange thing about it is that frequently you can't tell which is which.—The Columbus Dispatch.

SOLOMON WINS SIX ROUND 'GO'

New Castle Middleweight Takes Decision From Young Guido

Mickie Solomon, flashy welterweight managed by Eddie Weygant, who is a member of the Jim Dime stable last night turned in a six round victory over Young Guido at Erie.

The victory was Solomon's from start to finish and it was his nineteenth fight, 13 of the 19 having ended in knockouts which speaks well for the kid that Weygants pilots.

Johnny Pollock, also in Eddie's stable lost to Louie Severio in six rounds and in the main battle Larry Brignolia won a decision from Dick Conlon in eight rounds.

Jimmie Dime accompanied Weygant, Solomon and Pollock to Erie.

THE VANISHING IRISHMEN BY FEG MURRAY

Copyright 1928, by Metropolitan Newspaper Service

Two of the most picturesque, as well as greatest athletes who ever tossed the weights around for medals and glory are now making their last stand against double adversaries of age and youth, the age that is creeping over their mighty frames and the youths who seem to spring up all over the country to surpass their efforts. Also, these two mighty men are making a last stand for the race that once was supreme in the art and science of weight-throwing.

Two great Irishmen, Matt McGrath and Pat McDonald, whose ages total 100 years, are trying out for the Olympic team, trying for another trip to represent the United States abroad against the best of the world, even though the thrill has gone from "Big Time" competition and winning means nothing more to them than "just another medal." In spite of gray hair and stiffening joints, Matt and Pat are out to show the youngsters that "there's life in the old boys yet"—especially if the old boys happen to be Irish, and cops, at that.

Therefore, don't be surprised if Matt and Pat make the Olympic team this year, especially Matt, who has been over four times already and would have been in 1916 if they had held any Olympics then. Pat couldn't quite make the grade in 1924, so his chances aren't so bright, but he's been showing a surprising amount of pep lately. He put the shot 47 feet, 5 inches in the Metropolitan championships on June 9th, to defeat Dave Adelman, of Georgetown, indoor intercollegiate champion.

But this is the last stand of the "Irish Whales" who have made so much athletic history in the shot, hammer, discus, and weight events ever since the late Jim Mitchell came to America in 1888 and won the 56-pound weight-throw. Mitchell won twenty national titles in all; McGrath won fourteen; McDonald, thirteen; Flanagan, thirteen; Ryan, ten; and Sheridan, nine; and between them this remarkable group accounted for twelve Olympic championships and numerous world's records.

Twilight Contest Ends In Protest

In a game that was protested any number of times by both teams, the South Hill and Mahoning teams of the American section of the Twilight League played a deadlocked 5-5 game last night at the Pennsy grounds.

The game was a pitchers battle between McLuskey and Jenkins. Both managers C. Frengel and Dominick entered protests on the outcome of the game. But one official Twilight League umpire was present and this added somewhat to the unpleasantness of the situation. The Commissioners will at a later date afix the rightful standing of this game. Frengel claims that an agreement was made prior to the game to play seven innings and that Mahoningtown wanted to continue after the seventh. The South Hill team walked off the field in the ninth inning.

Big Ed Walsh will pitch for the White Sox today.

Old timers rubed their eyes. Big Ed Walsh indeed. Big Ed's been out of the big show for many a year. Big Ed the man whose mighty arm hurled the old Pale Hose to great triumphs in days long past.

He isn't Big Ed in there but he is the next best thing—Big Ed's son, Ed, Jr.

Young Walsh comes to the team his father helped make famous after many triumphs at Notre Dame university. He is 24.

Mexican Beetles Found In County

County Farm Agent Tells How To Combat Pest Appearing Here

Mexican Bean Bettles have been found in Lawrence county, states County Agent H. R. McCulloch, who also gives a method whereby it be controlled.

The bean beetle, Mr. McCulloch goes on to say, feeds on the under surface of bean leaves, leaving the upper surface intact. They eat away the tissues of the foliage in parallel sections, leaving narrow strips between. This gives the leaf a lace like appearance, and in severe cases the leaves shrivel, turn brown and the plant dies.

The adult beetle is hemispherical and about one-fourth of an inch long. When newly emerged it is lemon yellow in color, although in a short time, 16 black spots appear on the wing covers, and the lemon yellow color gradually deepens to a coppery bronze.

The insect can best be controlled, says the county agent, by applications of stomach poisons. A mixture of one pound of calcium arsenate and nine pounds of hydrated lime is advocated by Mr. McCulloch. This should be dusted on the plants at a rate of 15 pounds to the acre.

Dust must be thrown on the under sides of the leaves, as this is where the beetle feeds.

N. Y. STOCKS

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, June 23.—Heavy selling of the industrial stocks and the motors broke out at the beginning of the short session of the market today, carrying prices of many of the market leaders down 2 to 5 points below the level of the previous close. A good part of the selling was attributed to western traders, who were forced by a new crash in Bancitaly Corporation to liquidate their holdings of other stocks. Bancitaly declined 11 points to 100 in the curb market in the first period as the result of this "distress selling" by outside traders.

Heavy offerings of the steel, copper, motor and specialty stocks at the opening of the market suggested that the cleaning out of weak speculative structures had not been completed.

Nearly $300,000,000 reduction in brokers' loans has been forced in the last two weeks but nearly as much more will be required, according to financial experts.

United States Steel duplicated its low price for the year at 132¾ in the final period. All sections of the market were again under selling pressure near the close and prices declined to the lowest level of the day. Radio lost 6 points, General Motors 3, and losses of 1 to 2 points were recorded in a long list of market favorites.

It was reported that further wiping out of margins and opening up of stop-loss orders had forced a moderate volume of stock on the market near the close. Rails closed steady, with good demand for the high grade dividend shares.

Funeral Service For Rev. English

Last Sad Rites Are Carried Out At Croton Church This Morning

Impressive funeral services were conducted this morning at 10:30 for the late Rev. T. W. English in the Croton Methodist Episcopal church of which he had been the pastor for about two years.

The church was filled by members of his congregation and other sorrowing friends who had assembled to pay their last respects to their beloved pastor and associate.

Dr. D. A. Platt, pastor of the Grace M. E. church of Meadville, delivered the funeral address. Dr. Platt had been a friend of Rev. English since boyhood. A beautiful tribute was paid to Rev. English by Dr. F. S. Neigh, superintendent of New Castle district. About thirty ministers were present from this city and other parts of the Erie conference.

During the services the choir sang "Peace Perfect Peace". Dr. W. A. Womer also sang a solo entitled, "When They Ring the Golden Bells of Heaven".

The funeral party left this afternoon for Sigel, Jefferson Co., Pa., where burial will be made. Dr. Roy Howe, district superintendent of Clarian district was in charge.

Rev. English was born at Sigel, Pa., March 18, 1863 the son of James T. and Eliza Clover English. After attending the old Corrier seminary at Clarion, Pa., he taught a few terms of public school at Marionville, Pa. While in school work he felt the summons of the Christian ministry and was licensed to preach in the Erie conference of the Methodist church in 1891 by Bishop C. H. Fowler. He was ordained elder in 1896 at New Castle by Bishop J. M. Walden.

His ministerial record covers the years from 1891 to 1928. He served the following charges: Corduroy, 1891 to 1892; Glen Hazel, 1883-4; Arroys, 1895-9; Rimersburg, 1900-3; 1904-6 West End, Punxsutawney and Frostburg; 1907-11 Sagertown; 1912-13, South Dayton, N. Y.; 1914-19, East Side Dubois; 1920-5, Brockway; 1926-28, New Castle, Croton avenue.

In 1888 he was united in marriage to Elvira Detrick of Clarion who died five years ago during his pastorate at Brockway. To this union were born three children, Earl T. of Vermilion, O., Edna I. of Akron, O., and Floyd W. of Corning, N. Y.

In 1924 he was united in marriage to Mrs. J. C. A. Borland who survives him.

Rev. English was known among his fellow pastors of the conference as a very successful evangelist. He left every charge stronger than he found it. He influences quite a number of young men to enter the ministry. In Boy Scout work he was an outstanding leader being himself an Eagle Scout.

He was to have delivered the annual memorial sermon at the next conference session in September but his Master needed him for larger service in the heavenly realm.

Believe Gypsy Women Got $49

Union Township Woman Reports To Police Money Gone After Gypsies' Visit

James Anderson of Union township reported to the police at noon today that his wife Mrs. Ella Anderson was at home yesterday and while she was on the front porch that two gypsy women got out of a car and walked over to her. They sat on the porch talking to her for half an hour and then left. Later they returned a second time.

This morning in changing her clothing Mrs. Anderson discovered that $49 in cash which she had hidden in part of her clothing was missing. Mr. Anderson informed the police that he was convinced that the gypsy women took the money. This is also the opinion of Mrs. Anderson.

The women were described as being one short and the other tall. One wore a brown silk dress and a white hat.

Propose Improvements For Allegheny River

(International News Service)

KITTANNING, Pa., June 23.—Improvements on the Allegheny river from Oil City to Pittsburgh which would insure a system of canals and locks opening the entire valley to sea shipping, should be the ultimate goal of river valley boosters, according to Congressman Nathan L. Strong, of Brookville, Pa.

Speaking before the 31st annual convention of the Allegheny River Improvement association, Rep. Strong said that the time was at hand when valley residents could go before Congress to ask for aid in improving the river facilities to a point where commerce on the water would exceed that of the Monongahela.

Need Cooperation

If cooperation is forthcoming from the people of the valley, Major Jarvis J. Bain, Pittsburgh district engineer told the delegates, he is prepared to go ahead with plans to build arms and locks at the upper end of Kittanning and at Mosgrove. He said that $1,750,000 is at hand for this work, is promised. If cooperation is not forthcoming, however he warned, the money will revert back to his department and will be lost to the river.

Apollo, which seeks the improvement of the Kiskiminetas and Conemaugh rivers, was selected for the 1929 convention city of the association.

Mexican Business Man And Former German War Ace, Start Non-Stop Flight

MEXICO CITY IS DESTINATION, SAY

(International News Service)

WALKERVILLE, Ont., June 23.—Joaquim Pacheco, Mexican business man, and Fritz Vieler, former German war ace, and now proprietor of a flying school in Mexico City, hopped off today on a non-stop flight to Mexico City.

The flyers are driving a Stinson-Detroiter plane. The plane carried 410 gallons of gas, enough for the 30 to 35 hours of sustained flying to the Mexican capital.

Vieler was a German aviator in the World War and then went to Mexico City, where he is a leader in aviation circles.

The object of the flight is to stimulate interest in commercial aviation in Mexico.

Trumbull County Man Tells Prosecutor Of Early Morning Shooting

Father Of Five Blames Victim For Domestic Difficulties

WARREN, O., June 23.—Russell Siegel, 35, father of five children, today admitted to Prosecutor Linn B. Griffith that he shot and fatally wounded Max Iddings, 27, a roomer at the Siegel home on the Youngstown-Hubbard road, Friday.

Siegel told the prosecutor that he found Iddings with his wife when he came home. Seizing a gun, the husband shot the roomer through the head. Iddings died about 40 minutes later.

Police were told that Siegel repeatedly had asked the roomer to leave the home. The Siegel children range in age from 2 to 12. The father had paid a visit to the home of his parents at Austintown Thursday night and left the home about midnight, he told the prosecutor.

Siegel said he had been greatly worried by the situation. Iddings had been a roomer only since last January and, according to Siegel's story to the prosecutor, had caused considerable trouble.

First word of the murder was given to the neighbors by Mrs. Siegel. Mahoning county officials started an investigation but turned the matter over to Trumbull officials when it was discovered that the home was located in this county.

Mrs. Siegel said that Iddings had been shot while in his own room. She said that she had been sleeping with her children and was awakened by the shot.

Siegel is being held in the county jail under a technical charge of suspicion.

State Encampment Likely To Come Here

New Castle Is In Line For Big Gathering In 1930 Is Report

New Castle has prospects of a state convention in 1930, which will not only bring hundreds of people to the city, but will also probably be a historical happening in the history of the affiliated organizations holding it.

This convention is nothing more or less than the State Encampment of the G. A. R. and its several affiliated patriotic organizations.

At the recent convention in Scranton the convention was reminded that it will be thirty years in 1930 since the G. A. R. encampment was held here, the last encampment here being in 1900.

The convention was advised that it was hoped that this city would be selected in the year 1930. While the convention could take no action at this convention, the sentiment expressed was that the G. A. R. and affiliated patriotic organizations, should avail themselves of the invitation extended. This was made most certain, when Philadelphia in the extreme eastern part of the state was selected as the convention city in 1929.

This convention if held here, and it is it is considered highly probable that it will be, will be unique, it is said in this respect, that it will probably be the last state G. A. R. Encampment held at any point in the state, except a certain designated permanent headquarters of the G. A. R. Encampment held at any point in the state, except a certain designated permanent headquarters of the G. A. R. and affiliated organizations.

As now planned, Gettysburg, Pa., will be the permanent headquarters and encampment headquarters of the G. A. R. and its affiliated organizations after 1930.

Should this city be selected as the state encampment headquarters 1930, it is planned to entertain the visitors in an appropriate manner.

Mother and daughter may dress the same way and weigh the same, but somehow the difference of 20 years makes one slender and the other skinny.

DRY LEADER SWALLOW AN' HIS INTERESTIN' FAMILY

In a sneerin' article written by Dry Leader Pogue Swallow, an' which appears in this week's Weekly Slip Horn, th' author ridicules th' argyments o' th' wet fanatics, an' concludes his communication with th' follerin' paragraphs—

Who recalls when a feller allus got pickled t' break in a new straw hat?

What's become o' th' moody grouch that got lit up jest t' git away from himself?

Girls used t' order cocktails jest fer th' cherries.

Who recalls th' clove breath an' splattered vest. Wher's th' feller who wuz a good provider when he wuz out of his cups?

Jest think, us prohibitionists used t' think we'd done somethin' big if saloons wuz only open in th' forenoons on th' Sabbath.

Folks used t' shun a drunken man, but now they flock around him t' find out where he got it.

Wher's all th' champions o' personal liberty who lived on beer an' radishes an' fried hog liver?

Wher's th' feller who couldn' be sociable unless he smelled like a Deer Creek distillery.

Wher's all the trucks that used t' park around suburban saloons at th' soup hour?

Wher's th' poor little warped woman with a broken nose who used t' tell th' judge what a dandy feller her husban' wuz when he wuzn' drunk?

Wher's th' ole down an' outer who used t' cut mint t' trade fer drinks?

Wher's th' periodical drinker who used t' preach prohibition eight months o' th' year an' keep soused th' other four?

Where are th' stomachs an' watch chains that used t' repose in front o' th' open dens?

Wher's th' woman who used t' pull her husband's leg when he wuz flushed with wine?

Wher's Ike Soles, who used t' like a cool glass o' beer "occasionally?" He nearly owns his own home, an' shaves ever' mornin'.

What's become o' th' swell groomed, distinguished lookin' soak that used t' lick 'em up all day long, week in an' week out, an' still look like he'd jest written a history o' Napoleon?

What's happened t' th' feller who used t' go about with cold slaw hanging t' his mustache?

Who recalls when we used t' have t' wait fer weeks t' catch a feller sober an' at himself?

Who can't go back fer enough t' remember when a drummer allus depended on gittin' his prospective customer ory eyed?

Who recalls when hotels use t' make ther money off th' bar instead o' th' cafe?

Wher are all th' farmers who used t' come t' town with a load o' hay an' buy a beer an' were never heard of again?

As Lafe Bud very truthfully remarked a few nights ago, "Prohibition may not jest exactly prohibit, but I hope t' tell you it curtails somethin' fierce."

CLEANING STREETS.

New Castle Pa., June 22, 1928.

Editor The News:

Sir:—

Our city council are always ready to sing the song of lack of money and seem to find it necessary to boost taxes for one cause or another, and at the same time are able to scrape together enough to pay outsiders to come here and tell them how to handle traffic and whatever information they desire.

The street department seems to be overburdened with expense due to hauling away the sand and gravel washed down on the streets.

Of late they have been cleaning Neshannock avenue on Friday night, getting out about midnight or shortly after. Tonight they have just been around with nine men and a truck driver .This could be cut from ten men to three men and a line of old fire hose and the three men could do a better job than the bunch that has just passed up the street. The avenue is no cleaner now than before. The bunch on the payroll are some bunch. They go up the street scraping their shovels along the gutters and then follow the second brigade with brooms swishing up a dust and missing half of the dirt.

Then follows the third gang shoveling what little that had been swept into piles by the sweepers and shovelers.

Scraping heavy steel shovels over a brick pavement makes more noise than two dozen milk drivers, so you may know how much noise they make as you used to be aroused by a few up on your quiet North Hill thoroughfare.

This thing of trying to clean the streets at night with shovels and brooms should be cut out and a more efficient system used instead.

I remember some years ago we had a man in charge of the streets that knew his business. He cleaned the streets with hose and water. This man didn't draw three thousand a year salary either and our streets never looked better.

A line of hose will clean the street even if automobiles are parked along the curb.

I think it would be a good idea if the former woolen goods salesman would look around the streets some night after they are cleaned (?) or rather attempted to be cleaned and he would soon see where it would be better to use three or four men with some old fire hose.

Very respectfully,
F. G. PEEBLES,
363 Neshannock Ave.

Ask New Trial In Elisco Case

Attorneys File Appeal In Lawrence County Court On Friday Afternoon

In a motion presented to Judge Hildebrand in court, late Friday afternoon by Attorney A. Martin Graham, acting for the other two counsel of Frank Elisco, Attorney Thomas W. Dickey and H. A. Wilkison, a new trial is asked for Elisco, who was found guilty of manslaughter in the death of Antonion Di Rauso.

It is argued in the motion that the verdict is against the weight of the evidence, and that the court erred in allowing the commonwealth to cross examine Sam Lambiaso. Other errors are charged.

No decision was handed down in the appeal.
